George Washington First American Business Man, Declares Coolidge

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—"First in War, First in Peace,"—and to that should be added "First American Business Man."

So adduced President Coolidge in a eulogy of George Washington, delivered before a joint session of congress.

Departing from the usual custom of hearing solely on Washington's exploits as commander of the Revolutionary forces and as first president, Mr. Coolidge devoted the greater part of a 4,500-word speech to a discussion of the business acumen of the Great Virginian.

"First commercial American," "First expansionist," "Builder," "creator," "man of affairs,"—these were but a few of the nominations conferred upon the father of his country by Mr. Coolidge.

"If ever there was a self-made man, it was George Washington," observed the president.

THE executive's speech was broadcast to the far corners of the earth through the medium of one of the most ambitious radio hookups ever attempted. The United States was covered "from coast to coast, border to border." Station 2XAD, of the General Electric Co. Schenectady, carried the spoken word to London, and Station KDKA, Pittsburgh, linked up South Africa and New Zealand—all under the auspices of the National Broadcasting Co.

President Coolidge traced the history of Washington from early youth. He showed that though there were no great incentives to learning at the time, the great patriot "eager mind and indomitable will" led him to continue hungrily for information long after his schooling had stopped at the age of 13.

• • •

ENTERING the world of ordinary affairs, said Mr. Coolidge, Washington showed himself a man of great business ability through his handling of the 8,000 acre estate at Mt. Vernon, 3,200 of which was under cultivation at one time. The president referred to him as "the first farmer in America."

So successfully did the first president conduct the estates of his two step-children that, at the age of 21, John Parke Curtis became the richest young man in the old dominion Mr. Coolidge further noted.

As an investor, Washington further distinguished himself, the executive said, he having been the first to buy up land warrants and hold on to his title in the face of squatters.

Realizing the future of the American empire beyond the Alleghenies in the territory of the Ohio and the Mississippi, he brought forward the first plans for the organization of our public lands.

• • •

"HURLBURT, who has made a study of it," said the president, "calls him our first expansionist, the originator of the idea of possessing the west through commercial relations.

"He built for eternity."

With those who seek to make Washington an heroic figure "composed of superlatives," the president expressed no sympathy. He was "a real man among men, a human being subjected to the trials and temptations common to all mortals," he said.

"He demonstrated that those who develop our resources, whether along agricultural, commercial and industrial lines, or in any other field of endeavor, are entitled to the approval, rather than the censure of their countrymen," Mr. Coolidge concluded.

On the Union Pacific
A Tiger Skin Girl
Whisky $4.50 a Gallon
G. W. Aristocrat

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

THIS is written west bound on the Union Pacific, a monument to railroad genius of the pioneer days, and to E. H. Harriman who killed himself reconstructing the road and left it for his monument.

The train has stopped at Omaha, where N. B. Updike, president; Edward Penn, chief editor, and Jay M. Hoffer, business manager of the "Omaha Bee," rule the roost. The "Bee" has just swallowed the "Omaha News."

"Fewer bigger and better newspapers seem to be the program."

• • •

REPORTERS come to the station to inspect traveling curiosities, including photographers. The young woman from the "Bee," dressed in a leopard tiger skin coat, keen as a falcon, pretty as a dove, is the most interesting. The others are men.

Two little girls, one with red hair, one with brown from the Omaha high school newspaper ask: "Can a girl become a great reporter?"

They are told that Nellie Bly was the best reporter of her day and Dorothy Dix is the best reporter living, and go back to school determined to be great.

• • •

THIS morning's front page of "The Bee" gives interesting information about our great American bootlegging industry.

Item 1: Omaha bootleggers have reduced the price of homemade whisky to $4.50 a gallon. Overproduction is the trouble. Wine continues to sell for $6 a gallon. New Yorkers pay $25 a gallon for whisky no better, but before they move to Omaha to get a cheaper bootlegger they should read item No. 2:

• • •

NO. 2: "For the third time in six weeks government chemists in Omaha have found large quantities of wood alcohol in recent seizures of 'Gordon gin.' One to four per cent of wood alcohol is the average." Gordon gin with three per cent wood alcohol will kill you if you drink two quarts of it.

• • •

NO. 3: A United States soldier from Fort Omaha, booked at the police station as drunk and damaged, tried to walk a tight wire stretched from the Paxton Hotel toward the Burlington station. He fell, but will recover. There was wood alcohol in his "Gordon gin."

• • •

THIS part of the country, once wild with shooting men, now looks to Chicago and New York for excitement. New York supplies wine bathtub parties and holdups. Chicago, the gunmen equipped with machine guns and gas bombs, and really interesting elections. The Chicago mayoralty primary that sent out 60 detective bureau squads, each with a machine gun, rifles, shotguns and a supply of tear bombs, makes the old-time cowboy with his little forty-six-shooter seem rather tame. As for the voters so much interested in the election? Not at all, but the politicians are in the jobs and graft.

• • •

TODAY we celebrate Washington's birthday, taking a holiday, without much thought of Washington. The average man knows that he fought and licked the British, and that's enough.

Washington did more than beat the British; he conquered himself, when he took the side of the colonists, common people for whom he never had very much sympathy, opposing his own class, and the British crown, for which he had respect.

• • •

WASHINGTON was an aristocrat, which means that he thought himself—for good reasons in his case—better than other men. He received visitors with his hands behind his back that he might not be expected to shake hands with them, owned lands and slaves. He had no high opinion of the average man, and many average men

HALF OF CITY'S DEFICIT FOUND IN BALANCES

$20,000 Additional Revenue Available, City Auditor Landes Points Out

Marion's municipal finance problem, resulting from City Treasurer Ada Queen's announcement that sinking fund receipts this year will be approximately $40,000 less than the amount of bonds and interest falling due, is at least partially solved by the announcement that approximately $20,000 additional revenue will be available.

This information came today from City Auditor J. L. Landes, who says that he is preparing to turn over to the sinking fund trustees about $20,000 that has accumulated in the city treasury from unexpended balances in street improvement accounts.

This will more than cover the sinking fund shortage that Treasurer Queen has estimated for the first half of the year. Should a similar deficit develop when the time comes for paying the second installment of bonds and interest on Sept. 1, it will be possible to transfer the money from the city's operating funds without crippling any of the offices or departments, officials say.

Balance Cause

Balances in the street improvement accounts result from differences between actual cost of the improvements and the amount of bonds issued, Auditor Landes stated today. Most of the accumulation is in connection with pavings, sidewalks and sewers constructed during the last year.

After a street improvement is authorized by council, the auditor explains, bonds based on the city engineer's estimate of the probable cost are sold. This estimate must be made large enough to assure complete coverage of the entire improvement expense and as a consequence there is almost invariably a balance left after the work is finished. Occasionally contractors' bids are considerably below the estimate and the surplus is proportionately large.

Make Transfer

As assessments are levied only for the actual cost of an improvement, the balance left from the bond issue is transferred to the sinking fund for payment of general debt and interest.

Yesterday the auditor requested City Engineer Cathers to make a complete check of all pending improvement accounts to ascertain what expense items remain unpaid. After getting the engineer's report, the auditor will make a transfer of the unincumbered balances to the sinking fund trustees. He estimates that the total will be about $20,000.

When Treasurer Queen first announced that sinking fund revenue

CAROL IS WORRIED

Sends Personal Message to His Father; Fails to Get Answer

Paris, Feb. 22 — Fearful that his political enemies are active and that King Ferdinand has not received his telegram asking for permission to visit him as a private citizen, Prince Carol today sent a personal messenger to Bucharest with a request to the king that he be granted safe conduct to visit him.

No reply has been received to the telegraphic request sent by Prince Carol on Saturday, and today he asked a personal friend going to Bucharest to deliver a message to the king personally stating that he desires to visit his father in a private capacity.

"I am distressed at the published dispatches from Rapallo, which have appeared in American and European newspapers, saying I have arrived or am arriving there," Prince Carol said. "Plotting political enemies may have inspired them in order to confuse my father."

ITALIAN ACE COMPLETES FLIGHT SUCCESSFULLY

Lands Safely at Natal on Brazilian Coast This Afternoon

Rio Janeiro, Feb. 22—The Marquis Francisco De Pinedo, Italy's premier ace, today completed a successful flight across the South Atlantic ocean.

The marquis arrived this afternoon at Natal on the Brazilian coast, having made a continuous flight from Porto Praia, Cape Verde Islands, a distance of some 1,537 miles.

• • •

Rio Janeiro, Feb. 22—The Marquis De Pinedo, flying from the Cape Verde Ilands to Brazil, crossed over Fernando De Noronha, 125 miles off the coast of Brazil, at 2:02 this afternoon.

De Pinedo made no stop at Fernando De Noronha, as it had been expected he would, but continued onward in the direction of Natal.

On reaching Fernando De Noronha the Italian ace had flown 1,432 miles in 12 hours and 52 minutes.

The flight is the longest on record across the Southern Atlantic.

De Pinedo had planned a flight from the African coast to the Brazilian coast but the weight of the machine made this impossible.

STUDENT SUICIDE

High School Youth Dies of Shotgun Wounds; Another Near Death

Chicago, Feb. 22—The student suicide epdemic had claimed at least one more victim here today and possibly a second victim.

Harold Marks, 17, a senior at Lindblom High school, was found dead in his father's garage an old German rifle across his body.

John Brassel, 18, junior at the Barrington High school, drove an automobile into a deep forest two miles from his home and plunged a knife into his chest.

Young Brassel staggered to the highway where he was found by friends. At the hospital it was said his condition is critical.

HOLIDAY BRINGS MARKET CLOSING

New York, Feb. 22—The financial markets of the United States are closed today in observance of Washington's Birthday. The New York Stock Exchange, the Curb Market, the New York and New Orleans Cotton Exchanges, the Chicago Board of Trade, the new Coffee and Sugar Exchange, the Rubber Exchange and the Mid-west Grain Exchanges close their doors. The banks, clearing houses and many industrial plants are also closed.

JUVENILE CRIME WAVE ARRESTS CLIMB TO 17

Orland McDaniels, 15, Admits Taking Part in Burglary, Police Claim

The list of boys taken into custody in connection with Marion's juvenile crime wave round-up reached a total of 17 this morning when Orland McDaniels, 15 of 819 Cheney-av was arrested for alleged participation in one of the three burglaries staged at the Miller Bros. restaurant and grocery on Cheney-av.

Young McDaniels, taken into custody at Central Junior High school is said to have admitted taking part in the robbery.

"I have been expecting this and am glad it's over with," he told officers.

The boy's arrest resulted from questioning of Forest Roush and Charles Redman, two boys recently sent to the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster on robbery charges. They informed Carter Patton, assistant city solicitor, that McDaniels had been implicated in one of the Miller store jobs. Roush and Redman were called here as witnesses in the hearing of James Smith, 18, of Bellefontaine-av, also accused in connection with the Miller burglaries. McDaniels was taken to the Marion County Detention Home and will probably be arraigned in Juvenile Court Wednesday.

NICARAGUA INTERVENTION CONSIDERED PERMANENT

Washington Convinced American History in Panama, Haiti To Be Repeated

Washington, Feb. 22—American intervention in Nicaragua apparently is to be on a permanent basis.

With an occupational force of American marines and bluejackets rapidly saturating the country, policing the cities and the country's one railroad; American airplanes patrolling the borders to keep out gun-runners, it needed but the announcement that a new treaty is in negotiation to convince Washington that American history in Panama and Haiti is about to be repeated in Nicaragua.

There was before the state department today a formal request from President Adolfo Diaz for the consummation of a treaty which combines the features of both the Haitian and Panaman treaties, under which these republics have become virtual American dependencies, sympathetic consideration is assured—it is already actually agreed upon.

While the state department declines to discuss details of the projected treaty, it is understood that what Diaz has requested—and what Secretary of State Kellogg is disposed to grant—is a considerable degree of American control both military and civil.

JUDSON HARMON TAKEN BY DEATH IN CINCINNATI

Former Governor of Ohio Succumbs Suddenly in Jewish Hospital There

Cincinnati, Feb. 22—Judson Harmon, former governor of Ohio, died in the Jewish Hospital here at 8:20 o'clock this morning, physicians at the hospital announced.

Hospital authorities declined to make known the former governor's ailment nor would they state how long he had been in the hospital.

Although he had been ill for about 10 days, his death was entirely unlooked for, it was said by his associates here.

Nineteen days ago he celebrated his eighty-first birthday, and until a few days later continued his rigorous law practice here.

Twice Governor

Twice governor of Ohio, attorney general of the United States in the last administration of President Grover Cleveland, judge of the superior court of Hamilton County, and one of the outstanding members of the bar of the United States, Judson Harmon was one of the most distinguished sons of Ohio. In 1912 he was an unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic nomination for president, when Woodrow Wilson was first nominated at Baltimore.

He was elected governor of Ohio in 1908 and re-elected in 1910, at that time defeating Warren G. Harding, later elected president of the United States, by more than 100,000 plurality. During Governor Harmon's last term as governor, the Ohio constitution was practically rewritten, the constitutional convention completing its work in 1912.

Compensation Law

Prior to the great constitutional changes, however, under the influence of Governor Harmon, the first workmen's compensation law was written into the Ohio statutes, and the principle that industry must care for those injured in its employment was made the law of the state.

Control of the state's institutions for the care of dependents and criminals was centered in one board under Harmon's administration, and many radical reforms in state accounting methods were made.

When Governor Harmon left the executive office in 1913 he resumed the practice of law in Cincinnati, and was active in that profession until shortly before his death.

KLAN BLOWS UP

Sixty-six of 86 North Carolina Chapters Surrender Charters

Raleigh, N. C., Feb. 22—The Ku Klux Klan as an active, organized force in North Carolina, virtually blew up today.

Judge Henry A. Grady, for four years grand dragon of the order, announced his resignation from the organization, following a break with imperial wizard, Hiram W. Evans, and simultaneously there was introduced in both branches of the legislature today bills outlawing the use of masks and concealing robes by members of secret organizations.

Sixty-six of the 86 local klan chapters for the state are said to have surrendered their charters today.

LAWLESSNESS FEATURES CHICAGO PRIMARY TODAY

Chicago, Feb. 22—More than 50 men under arrest, half a dozen slugged and kidnaped and a general fear of gang lawlessness marked the opening of the mayoralty primaries in Chicago today.

Twenty-seven men, a machine gun and a large number of small arms, including two shotgun, were grabbed by police in a raid on the headquarters of Michael S. Winek, candidate for alderman.

PERTINENT FACTS ABOUT SHANGHAI

Shanghai is the chief port of China.

Half of China's customs revenues come from Shanghai.

British investments in Shanghai total $315,000,000.

SHANGHAI IS SHELLED, CITY IN CONFUSION

Attack Comes from Chinese Gunboat Which Mutinies, Joins Cantonese

Shanghai, Feb. 22—The bombardment of Shanghai has subsided. This bombardment, which was at first believed to have been from the guns of the Cantonese armies, now seems to have come from a Chinese gunboat, which mutinied and went over to the Cantonese cause and signified its action by a bombardment of Shanghai.

The extent of the casualities still is unknown but the bombardment caused the greatest confusion and there are reports of disorders in the Chinese quarters, where the majority of the shells fell. The French concession was struck by a dozen or more shells. No foreigners are reported to have been injured.

Naval authorities in the harbor took no action against the gunboat held responsible for the shelling.

American Hall Failure

The bombardment came from the vicinity of the Kiangnan Arsenal.

All foreign defense forces still are mobilized and the Washington birthday ball of the American colony was almost a complete failure since three-fourths of the prospective guests were on duty with the volunteer corps.

The British troops were ordered confined to quarters. The volunteer forces in uniform were standing by awaiting orders.

Shanghai is a scene of great confusion and excitement as uniformed figures of countless nationalities hasten to and fro, and officers are striving to determine the source of the shelling.

Ammunition Issued

American sailors and sailors of other nationalities have been recalled to their ships.

Ammunition has been issued to the concession defense units.

The French concession was the first to suffer, as heavy shells began falling within its limits late in the afternoon. One shell dropped on the Sporting Club.

Mutiny Reported

As soon as the shelling began there were disorders of a serious nature in the native quarters, adjoining the French concession.

One report stated that the constab-

The schooner's captain, Morgle Randall and crew of seven were brought to port aboard the schooner Grant Marshall.

The Marshall came upon the Conrad in distress and after taking off the crew set the latter boat on fire believing it to be a menace to shipping.

FEAR WALKOUT WHEN CONTRACT EXPIRES MAR. 1

Operators and Miners Concur on Disagreement Report

Miami, Fla., Feb. 22—The bituminous wage conference collapsed today.

Its fate was written when the miners and operators jointly concurred in the disagreement report of the sub-scale committee which for a week tried unsuccessfully to break the deadlock here.

The conference rejected both the miners' demand for the present $7.50 a day wage and the operators' plan for a lower competitive scale and a permanent arbitration board to settle all disputes.

Walkout Feared

The conference adjourned also die without the slightest semblance of an agreement, but it was indicated that conferences would be held later with those operators who are ready to accept the union plan.

Unless future negotiations can bring an agreement the soft coal miners will lay down their tools after March 31 when the Jacksonville contract expires.

In explaining their positions, operators said they would be forced to close their mines or go out of business unless given wage relief, while miners' officials retorted a pay slash would not be a panacea for the industry and reiterated their determination to take "no backward step" in the matter of wages or to accept arbitration.

Heated verbal clashes filled the dying moments of the meeting. Both sides disclaimed responsibility for the smashup here.

Affects Everyone

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, heaped blame upon the operators, while Phil H. Penna, Indiana operator, declared his side had stood ready all along to negotiate a contract "upon a constructive basis."

"We go home with sorrow and sadness," said Lewis. "This conference directly affects the home and well-being of every American citizen.

"The miners came here with open minds and without any hard or fast proposition. We are prepared to remain indefinitely, if it would contribute to the welfare of the industry."

"I cannot believe that the Ohio and Pennsylvania operators came in a conciliatory and constructive mood. It has been apparent that the negotiations would be fruitless from the beginning.

The situation assumed a darker hue following a caucus of operators held after the break-up. The spokesman said that Lewis' attack upon them had cemented their opposition against the union and would make a possible future settlement more difficult.

TOLEDO LAUNDRESS FINDS BODIES OF MAN AND WIFE

Children In Adjoining Room Sleep Through Family Tragedy Undisturbed

Toledo, Feb. 22—Mr. and Mrs. Alex Schuster, were found shot and beaten to death at their home here today by a laundress who called, and upon receiving no response at a door, went to a window and discovered the tragedy.

A revolver was lyng on the floor near the bed, together with several small bars of iron.

According to police, Schuster had been arrested two months ago on a charge of wife-beating. He had just recently completed a sentence in the Toledo workhouse.

Police believe Schuster stole into the house last night or early this morning, killed his wife and then committed suicide.

Three small children were sleeping in an adjoining room and knew nothing of the occurrence until late this morning.

'Career' Diplomats Pushed by Coolidge Administration

President Coolidge shows increasing dependence on trained diplomats for foreign service, rather than political appointees. Here are three. Left to right, Leland Harrison, now an assistant secretary of state, will succeed Robert Woods Bliss at Stockhold, Sweden; J. Butler Wright, also an assistant secretary of state, will be American minister to Hungary displacing Theodore Brentano, who has expressed a desire to retire from service because of age; and Hugh R. Wilson, now chief of the division of current information, state department, who will succeed Hugh S. Gibson at Berne, Switzerland. Minister Gibson has been transferred to Brussels while Robert Woods Bliss will be the new American minister at Buenos Aires.

Greater Strides Made by President Than by Any Other Executive

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—American "career diplomacy" has made greater strides during President Coolidge's administration than under any national chief executive who ever came before him.

A "career diplomat" as the expression implies, is one who has made a life study of diplomacy, who began at the bottom and worked up, a professional. "A political diplomat" is one who, knowing nothing about diplomacy, as a calling, gets his post in reward for political services, generally in the form of campaign contributions.

Not so many years ago all American diplomatic appointments were political. President Coolidge has given the preference to "career men" every time except in cases where he couldn't help himself.

THE exceptions have been appointments where an envoy's expenses are so heavy that his salary doesn't begin to cover them. Only a very rich man can accept such a mission and a rich "career diplomat" isn't always available. The president's only alternative is to name some croesus who can stand the financial gaff, regardless of his other qualifications.

This is unfortunate, since it means that untrained men fill nearly all the most important positions, but it can't be helped until the United States pays its diplomats more money.

London is the most conspicuous place of this kind. Only a multi-millionaire can hold his own there. Paris isn't much better. In fact, hardly any ambassador can live on his pay, but some ministers can.

• • •

SINCE he became president, Calvin Coolidge has made 25 diplomatic appointments, 15 of them "career" and 10 "political."

Recently he made six, all of the "career" kind:

William Phillips, hitherto ambassador to Belgium, named minister to Canada; Robert Woods Bliss, hitherto minister to Holland, named ambassador to Argentina; Frederick A. Sterling, hitherto counselor to the American embassy in London, named minister to the Irish Free State; Leland Harrison and J. Butler Wright, hitherto assistant secretaries of state, named respectively ministers to Sweden and Hungary; Hugh R. Wilson, hitherto chief of the state department division of current information, named minister to Switzerland.

• • •

IT'S fair to assume that Phillips must have a comfortable bank roll, at least for a "career man." Brussels isn't so expensive but Ottawa will run into money. Vincent Massey, just arrived here as the Dominion's minister in Washington, is said to be one of the richest men in Canada. If Canada means to splash, doubtless we'll have to.

Phillips' exchange of an embassy for a legation theoretically is a demotion, but practically the state department considers the Ottawa legation more important than the Brussels embassy.

Bliss, leaving The Hague for Buenos Aires, also goes from a modest berth to an expensely one. Some Latin American diplomatic posts can be run economically, but not Buenos Aires or Rio de Janeiro.

Sterling breaks about even. A legation costs more to keep up than a counselorship, but Dublin is cheaper to live in than London.

Harrison, Wright and Wilson, quitting high-priced Washington for the less pretentious cities of Stockholm, post-war Budapest and Berne, ought to save money.

Wright, by the way, has long been the state department's official glad hander when distinguished visitors were in Washington. What he doesn't know about what to wear and how to act and which knife and fork to use in the presence of royalty and other dignitaries isn't worth knowing.

LATIN-AMERICANS ARE HONORED BY HERRICK

Annual Luncheon to Ambassadors and Ministers Given in Paris

Paris, Feb. 22—Celebrating Washington's birthday, Ambassador Myron T. Herrick today gave a luncheon at the American embassy honoring the ambassadors, ministers and charges d'affairs of the Latin-American republics. The luncheon is an annual affair.

In a speech over the coffee Ambassador Herrick "rejoiced to see the tides of Pan-American friendship becoming stronger and more cordial every year."

"Whether we were belligerents or neutral, the war touched us all and hurt us all," the ambassador declared. "The magnitude of it was so great that we have not as yet been able to orient ourselves, but one result which is clearly discernable is the closer proximity in which it has brought all nations.

"It seems, therefor, to be incumbent upon each nation, wherever situated and whatever its interests, to approach every international question with great caution, with judicious understanding and with painstaking deliberation.

"As we belong now more than ever to a common family there is a more crying need for a submergence of selfish interest, a sympathetic consideration of the complaints and demands of others, and the utmost consideration of the complaints and demands of others, and the utmost patience and tolerance in all our international dealings.

Former G. O. P. Boss in Hamilton County Wielded Wide Influence

Members of his family could not be reached, and it was not known whether they had been notified of his death.

Born in Meyerstown, Pa., in 1859, the turbulent poltical life of Hynicka started in Cincinnati, where he had worked on local newspapers.

For 10 years prior to June, 1925, at which time he resigned the Republican national committeemanship from Ohio in favor of Maurice Maschke, Cleveland, Hynicka wielded the supreme power in local Republican circles, as well as having considerable influence in state and national politics.

Washington, Feb. 22 — Nine Wisconsin members of the house today remained officially out of the Republican fold as a result of their failure to attend the biennial organization caucus last night.

CALLS FOR AID GROW WHEN WINTER RETURNS

City Relief Officer Charles M. Tobin Busy Answering Pleas from Families

[illegible] winter weather during the last few days brought with it an increase in large number of calls for aid from [illegible] of the community, City Relief Officer Charles M. Tobin stated today.

Last night Tobin's office was busy throughout the day investigating applications for fuel and other supplies, the calls came chiefly from families whose sickness has kept the men from their places of employment. Flu is one of the prevalent ailments at this season of the year and is responsible for many of the applications for relief during the last few days, Mr. Tobin said.

A large percentage of the families applying for aid have come to Marion during the past years from other sections of the state, some of them being listed as "floaters," because of their tendency to move from one community to another, the relief officer says.

Work of the relief department has been unusually large since the beginning of winter, Tobin says, and he anticipates that the number of families helped will be somewhat higher than the average of recent years.

FREIGHT HOUSES CLOSE IN HONOR OF WASHINGTON

Delivery of Perishable Goods Only Exception; Erie Offices Open

Washington's birthday was being observed in local railroad circles today. Freight houses were closed except for the delivery of perishable freight although local freights were operated as usual. Hocking Valley offices were closed and the maintenance of way department men were given a holiday. The Erie offices in the Hocker Building, Nelson terminal yards and many of the men along the road worked as usual. The Erie freight house was closed.

There was little increase in passenger traffic as the result of Washington's birthday. Only the usual number of persons were going and coming on the various trains.

The American Railway Express office was closed and no express was delivered today.

While Washington's birthday is observed on the railroad it does not close the offices as do other legal holidays after.

To Begin Loading

The Hocking Valley Railroad will begin loading coal at the Toledo docks Wednesday, it was announced here today. With the approach of warmer weather a complete thaw is expected soon in the region of the Great Lakes and the Hocking Valley hopes to have a number of boats loaded and ready for a trip as soon as possible.

It is certain that more coal than ever will be carried through Marion over the Hocking Valley from the miners of Kentucky, West Virginia, and South Carolina. The rush will continue during the next three months.

During the last few weeks, an increase has been noted because of a prolonged cold spell in the mines and operators in session in Florida should agree and come to terms.

Trains On Time

Almost, stories have been reported during the last few days in the west and northwest and even along the Atlantic Seaboard, all trains operating through Marion have been on time.

In Columbus

John Zeck, clerk in the office of Superintendent L. A. Sparks of this district of the Hocking Valley Railroad, was in Columbus yesterday on company's business.

STUDENTS TAKE PART IN ROTARY CLUB PROGRAM

Display Vocational Training Work as Conducted at Harding High School

Vocational training in the Marion public schools was well displayed before members of the Marion Rotary Club Monday noon at the luncheon at Hotel Harding, when boys from that department and the instructors were guests of the Club and gave the program.

Displays of the work of both wood and machine shops and the mechanical drawing department were ranged about the room and were inspected by the club members.

Another feature of the program was the appearance of two girls from Vernon Heights Junior High School, who gave selections appropriate to Washington's birthday, which was observed in the schools. The girls were Catharine Cheney and Nyla Miller.

School Orchestra

An orchestra, lead by Howard Temple, music director of the schools and made up entirely of boys in the vocational department at Harding High School played during the luncheon. A saxophone solo was given by Leonard Berger. The other members of the orchestra were Homer Griffiths, Earl Grafton, Karl Parshall, John Parshall, Arthur Creasap and Herbert Gompf.

L. H. Risser, head of the vocational education department, R. A. Todd, mechanical drawing instructor, and C. H. Roesch, machine and wood shop instructor, gave talks on the work in the department.

Talk on Work

Paul Speth and Shelby Hammond, students in the vocational department also talked on their work there and the progress of the opportunities afforded by the courses.

Souvenirs of the meeting were given each member of the Rotary Club by the boys in the form of metal key ring checks, made by the boys, each check bearing the name and address of the member.

WASHINGTON'S NAME WITHSTANDS AGES

With the passage of nearly 150 years since the administration of Washington to that of Calvin Coolidge, the first president still holds the spotlight on the stage of the nation's great. To Washington's left in the group above are Woodrow Wilson, Abraham Lincoln and Calvin Coolidge. To the right are Robert E. Lee and Theodore Roosevelt. The picture of Washington shows him as he appeared as commander-in-chief of the Revolutionary army.

Historic Masonic Apron Owned and Worn by Washington Property of Marion Man

THIS Feb. 22, anniversary of the birth of George Washington, has aroused renewed interest in the fact that one of the most valuable Washington mementos, an article which was once a prized possession of America's first President, is now the property of a Marion citizen.

This priceless keepsake, a Masonic apron worn by Washington when attending the lodge of which he was a member, is owned by Morris Huhn, general agent of the New York Life Insurance Co. here, who has the apron framed and hanging in his office in the Barnhart Building, 132 E. Center-st.

This historic piece of Masonic regalia, made of lambskin and silk and artistically hand-painted, was presented to Mr. Huhn about 20 years ago by his father-in-law, Samuel Stricker, a former Tiffin, O., merchant.

The history of the apron, tracing it directly from Washington to the present owner, is engrossed on the back of the frame which hangs in Mr. Huhn's office. It reads as follows:

"This Masonic Emblem was presented by Gen. George Washington to Captain McClary of Virginia, an officer of Washington's staff. Captain McClary presented it to John W. Jackson, an eminent and worthy merchant, who died at Charington, Monroe County, O. in 1870.

"On the 22nd of February, 1865, it was presented by Mr. Jackson to Dr. John D. O'Connor, a Royal Arch Mason, then a member of the Ohio State Senate, a very eminent gentleman, who afterwards was a member of the Ohio Constitutional Convention, from Seneca County, in 1873 and died Feb. 21, 1874, in Cincinnati, during the session of the convention.

"This apron was presented by the widow of Dr. O'Connor to Mr. Samuel Stricker, the present possessor, a member of Tiffin Lodge No. 77, Chapter No. 42 and Clinton Council No. 47."

Given to Mr. Huhn

Transfer of the emblem to Mr. Huhn took place after the writing of this brief history. It was Mr. Stricker's desire to have the apron remain in possession of members of his family as long as there were Masons among them to whom it could be handed down.

Mr. Stricker resided at the Huhn home during the closing years of his life, his death occurring about eight years ago. During his active business career he was a prominent merchant in Tiffin.

The origin and history of the emblem has been established beyond question and Masonic officials generally accept the record as authentic. Special recognition of its authenticity was granted in 1876, when the apron was exhibited with a collection of other historic relics and mementoes at the centennial exposition in Philadelphia.

SCHOOL REPORT BETTER THIS YEAR THAN LAST

Both Enrollment and Attendance Show Improvement, Monthly Statement Shows

Both enrollment and attendance for January were better in Marion schools than the same month last year, according to the monthly report of Supt. J. H. Mason.

The monthly enrollment for January shows an increase of 121 over last year. The monthly enrollment decreased 49 during the first five months in 1925-26. The decrease for the same period this year is 15, indicating that the school enrollment has received 45 more new pupils than during the same period last year, the report states.

The percentage of attendance for January is high also, being 3.7 per cent higher than for the same month last year. The daily absence list for this January contained, on the average, 200 less names than during the same month this year.

The January enrollment this year was 5,567, while in December it was 5,567 and last year in January was 5,656. Tardiness was also cut down while attendance went up, there being only 357 tardy reports last month, compared with 400 in December, and 374 in January a year ago.

Three rooms in the schools had attendance of more than 98 per cent during the month. These rooms were those of Nellie Irey at Greenwood School, Mary Horseman at Vernon Heights and A. A. Wise at Central Junior High. Six rooms had more than 97 per cent attendance during January.

Street Corner Conversations Reveal Big "I" Most Important Among Topics

Most casual conversation [illegible] streets of Marion is [illegible] Snatches of conversation picked up at random fail to indicate that the weighty problems of the world are worrying the talkers to any extent. In fact most of the notes of brief bits of talk overheard on Marion streets show that the most important thing in the majority of conversations is the big I.

"I said to him —" or "I says to her —" and so on, with now and then a bit of sarcasm, or a sweetly, sentimental gushing from some woman to enliven the steady flow of commonplace and trivial greetings and gestures that flow past the listener.

Pleasant Pastime

Listening to street conversations is a pleasant pastime. It requires only a pair of oversize ears and a [illegible] imagination to make it entertaining. For most of the conversation is so disjointed it requires imagination to give it any sense whatever.

A young woman, leading a little girl by the hand was walking with an older woman, probably her mother. The younger woman was complaining bitterly about something.

"Well, I don't see why I can't have it, now," was the only part of the conversation that landed in the nervous ears mentioned above. Focus something on the speaker and [illegible] "Was she denied something by mother or husband?"

Two elderly women stopped and exchanged greetings.

"Yes, he's resting easily today, and is a little better." Someone has been [illegible] to the Great Divide.

Being firmly dressed, a boy about [illegible] years old, was walking along [illegible] and his mother stopped along [illegible] in front of a bakery and [illegible]

"I see the brown [illegible] as the best. Probably they [illegible] seven cents whatever they were.

Student Talk

Student conversation might be [illegible] if it could be caught. But because [illegible] the crowds of girls and boys that are out of Harding High School and Central Junior High School at noon and eight minutes after one for more than a week here are [illegible] Students talk with a rush and point of view that is too fast for the casual eavesdropper. Now and then a phrase stands out.

"No I got to go with them tomorrow night," said a low headed girl, with flapping galoshes, in a voice almost a [illegible] as she rushed along to lunch. It evidently was going to be something new and the way the voice [illegible] was impressed.

"Now you're a nut and you're a [illegible] and you're [illegible] and you're [illegible] and you're

Our soldiers are to have bigger and better meals, the president having raised the daily allowance from thirty-six to fifty cents, putting the army on an even footing with the navy in this respect. And why not? Certainly the added exercise the soldier gets doesn't lessen his appetite.

Washington and His Critics.

We presented upon this page, Monday, a cartoon by Cargill in which the character of Washington was represented by a mighty tree with great roots firmly imbedded in the soil, while his modern biographers and critics were depicted as a trifling little spiral of air, such as one sees in summertime disturbing the dust on the highway, harmlessly passing and dying away.

All over this country today, and in practically every civilized land, honor is being paid to the memory of George Washington in commemoration of the 195th anniversary of his birth, for the world does honor to the memory of the great because of their greatness and is forgetful of their faults. We have often felt that the great are greater because of the fact that they are able to attain greatness despite any human weakness which may be theirs.

Those who follow the sewers of history rather than the clear waters of its mighty streams have of late appeared to take special delight in endeavoring to blacken the memories of the illustrious dead. Others have been content merely to criticize and dwell upon alleged faults of temperament, of style of living; to view only the trifles in this great drama which we call life. It has been said that Washington drank. So did most men of his time. It has been said that he swore. Many men do upon occasion. It is charged he was a man of high temper. All the greater honor to him for controlling it so generally as he did.

But what of all this? What if such charges and others like them are true? We know that his greatness as a soldier is recognized; that his greatness as a president has been established; that his eminence as an American of Americans is beyond question. We know that he was recognized by those of his time as a great leader among men, as a great man and a great gentleman.

It would hardly be becoming, if we had the inclination, to attempt to reverse the verdict of the people of Washington's time. It would be the height of presumption.

The Boulder Dam Project.

A Washington wire published in our news columns, Monday, was to the effect that the proposed Boulder dam measure was doomed to failure in the senate. This proposed measure, properly known as the Swing Johnson bill, came down from the preceding session of congress, having been introduced in the house by Congressman Philip D. Swing, of California, and in the upper house of congress by Senator Hiram W. Johnson, of the same state.

The bill provides for the construction by the government of a dam 550 feet high—225 feet higher than the highest known dam—at Boulder canyon on the Colorado river, where it divides Arizona and Nevada at a point about 300 miles from Los Angeles, the purpose of the dam being the impounding of about 26,000,000 acre feet of water, at an estimated cost of $41,000,000. A second provision of the bill is the construction of an all-American canal to prevent the present diversion of the Colorado river into Mexico, at a cost of $31,000,000, and the construction and equipment of a mighty power plant of 1,000,000 horse-power capacity at Boulder canyon, at a cost of $31,500,000.

It is figured by the proponents of the bill, that construction work can be completed in five years, which would make an interest charge on the capital invested of $21,000,000 at four per cent., thus making the total cost of the undertaking $125,000,000. Those friendly to the bill hold that the dam and canal are absolutely necessary to protect the lives of 100,000 persons living in the Imperial and San Verde valleys of California and the Yuma project in Arizona and property of the value of $200,000,000. That the Imperial valley needs better flood protection is claimed by the friends of the bill, and conceded by the opponents of the measure. Already between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000 have been expended in this valley for flood control.

The opponents of the measure profess to be willing to vote for adequate flood control, but they draw the line at the Boulder dam and the big power project. They have brought forward government engineers to show that there is extreme danger in building a dam of the height proposed as it would have to stand a flood annually during the course of construction, and would not be safe even though its construction were accomplished. They have produced government engineers to show that the same result could be attained, so far as impounding water is concerned—in a word, for flood control and the regulation of the flow of the river for irrigation and domestic needs—at Mohave canyon, 100 miles nearer Los Angeles, at a cost of $15,000,000, which is about one-eighth of the cost of the present proposed project as estimated by its friends. In reality, the opponents of the bill says, it will take twice as long to do the proposed work as claimed, which will double the interest charge of $21,000,000 for five years, and that the entire cost of the project will be nearer $250,000,000 than $125,000,000.

Lastly, those who oppose the bill say its real purpose is to furnish water and power to Los Angeles and have Uncle Sam bear the cost of construction, and they claim that it is being championed and pushed along by the public ownership forces of the country to put the government into the power business, despite the sad result of government experimentation at Muscle Shoals, which is making a book return of one-and-a-third per cent., without provision for deteriorization or depreciation.

Originally there were seven states in compact for the project—Arizona, Utah, California, New Mexico, Nevada, Colorado and Wyoming—but the first two became dissatisfied, making charges of bad faith in connection with the bill, and withdrew.

We do not profess to know the merits of the controversy, but it seems to us that it might be good business policy for the government to get rid of the white elephant at Muscle Shoals before taking on the proposed construction, which the experts hold will cost probably $100,000,000 more than has been given up for the bleached pachyderm on the Tennessee river.

A REQUEST.

I scarcely need to ask it . . . be not kind,
Nor hardly beg a sigh of pentinence.
But see in your acquittal now no blind
Spent passion, nor mere vanitay's defense.
An earthlier hope, resilient as the grass,
Had known again its rain and sun and dew
On roadways where, they say, your feet still pass,
In rooms that stil hold memories of you.

Or Grecian marbles with the arms denied,
More perfect than by alien hands restored . . .
The precious relic of a dream I hoard
Against all rumor of what yet might foil
Your happiness, and bring you to my side.

WHAT WOULD BE YOUR DECISION?

Overwork May Cause Shingles.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

No matter what is wrong with you it is perfectly natural to wish it were something else. When the trouble is "shingles" you have a right to yearn for another ailment. This is a painful, disagreeable disease.

The doctors call shingles herpes zoster. It is a disease of one of the nerves supplying the skin over some part of the body. Usually it is a nerve running around one side of the trunk, like a girdle, or rather, half a girdle. But it may be located in the neck, one of the arms or legs, or one side of the head. Indeed, it may attack the skin anywhere.

When herpes attacks the nerve running from the eye, up across the forehead and into the scalp, it is given a special name. It is a long hard name such as doctors like to use—herpes zoster ophthalmicus.

No matter where it is or what its termination may be, shingles present certain symptoms. Before any eruption of the skin appears there is more or less neuralgiac pain in the afflicted part. This is followed by redness and may be accompanied by some general fever.

After two or three days there will be a tiny blister on the skin. Then other blisters follow.

If the blisters are small and do not become pus-infected, they may leave no scar. But in a severe case, particularly when the blister contents become pussy, there may be such involvement of the tissues that scars like those caused by chicken pox may be left.

In the ophthalmic or eye form of herpes there may be left a row or chain of scars, along the line of the nerve. An experienced person will know at once that at some time or other there has been an attack of shingles.

The ophthalmic type may cause serious inflammation of the eyeball. This makes a particularly uncomfortable and serious form of the disease.

There is another type of herpes, or a very similar ailment, which attacks the cheek. This may get well and then recur again and again. It is a disagreeable and embarrassing disturbance, especially to a good looking young woman.

I regard herpes as a disease of the overworked and tired. Strong, vigorous, well-nourished persons are unlikely to have it. Nature rebels if you persist in overdoing things. This is one of her ways of giving warning that danger is ahead.

Let an overworked person be exposed to cold or wet and on may come an attack of shingles. It might be something worse, but you will say this disease is bad enough.

In the treatment it is important to protect the blisters so they won't be broken or infected, or exposed to the air. Drying powders of zinc oxide or rice-starch may be sprinkled over the involved surface.

The family doctor will give the internal remedies to control the pain. In a week or two the acute symptoms disappear.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES.

H. J. L. Q.—What can be done for pimples on the upper arm? Also for large arms?

A.—A restricted diet in regard to sweets and regular elimination should clear up pimples. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

2.—Large arms may be made more slender by exercise and systematic massage. Swinging Indian clubs, using dumb-bells and wand exercises should all be helpful.

C. H. Q.—What do you advise for bunions?

A.—Bunions are caused by the pressure of the shoes on the joint of the great toe, and until this pressure is relieved the bunions can not be cured. If the trouble is of long standing surgical procedure may be necessary to cure.—Copyright, 1927.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

It has been said that the only real education is that which filters through the personality. We were all most influenced in school by the teachers who meant the most to us as men and women of character, rather than by those who just cleverly told us facts out of books. Dr. Alfred Adler, noted psychologist of Vienna, now in America, has all this in mind when he says: "The duty of the teacher is to build character and bring about an adjustment of the child to new social situations, rather than to teach him merely the fundamentals of a book education."

Dr. Adler also says: "The chief aim of the teacher should be to understand the child, not to discipline him."

How many teachers are as intent on understanding children as they are on discipline? How many are constantly trying to help the pupil make an adjustment to his work and to life instead of merely trying to drive him through a course of study?

It takes a lon time for an idea—even a right idea—to get into general circulation. If you do not believe it, remember a wise Jewish rabbi by the name of Johuda who lived in the first century of the Christian era. Rabbi Johuda wrote that the earth is round and that half of it enjoys daylight when the other half is immersed in night. And yet it is only in comparatively modern times that there has been general acceptance of the idea that the earth is round. Go into some of the remote districts of your own country even today and you will find the idea debated.

Speaking of the slow movements of ideas, another able Jewish teacher, living in the second century, made the assertion that man once had a tail. There were men centuries ago who began to think about man's evolution from a lower form of life. And there are more than half the people in the United States who are still uninterested in that idea.

The big job of the reformers is probably too big for them. It is to build up a new type of citizen, who will not need reforming. That calls for educating rather than crusading.

From Our Readers.

Sound Sense by a State Senator.

Editor Star: I have read with interest a recent editorial in your publication relative to legislation now pending to increase taxes on public utilities.

You recognize, no doubt, that this session of the assembly must produce more revenue, and it is a difficult question to decide the source from whence this increased revenue must come.

It seems to me that merely complaining about increased taxation is not the remedy. The remedy, to my mind, is to scrutinize carefully measures requiring increased expenditure of state funds. I have in mind a measure which passed the senate, in spite of vigorous opposition, in which I took some part, to subsidize denominational schools. There are forty-one schools in Ohio that are eligible to such subsidy, if the pending measure becomes a law. The pending measure proposes to subsidize Wilmington college to the extent of $115,000 over an eighteen month period. Other schools have a claim the same as Wilmington college, and if treated accordingly, the state may look forward in a few years to a biennial expenditure, for this purpose alone, of between three and four millions of dollars. A portion of the public utility lobby has thrown, and is now throwing, the full force of its influence to favor the initiation of this new departure, or, I might say, new onslaught, on state funds. I can not understand why the utilities should favor a policy that will mean greatly increased taxes, and at the same time complain of such increase.

The bill to which I specifically refer is senate bill No. 37, relative to Wilmington college. It might be well for those persons outside of the assembly, who are interested in restricting public expenditure, to get back of us who are in the assembly with the same thought and endeavor to curb the initiation of any policy which will call for greatly increased expenditures in the future.

Very truly yours,
Paul M. Herbert.

Today's Worst Story.

BY WILL ROGERS

Now, I've often thought that it's minding other guy's business that gets us into most all of our troubles. That goes for nations and for just ordinary mutts. If every one of us just looked after his own affairs the best he could, all of us would have a lot better time and more prosperity. I'm surprised there ain't more stories and jokes told to make this point, but I reckon it's a point most folks don't care about making.

Anyhow, I heard about one guy that learned his lesson. Or maybe two guys. One of them come into the hotel lobby, out in El Paso, with his two eyes all swelled shut.

"Say, pard," says a lobby loafer, "how did you get the two glims padlocked?"

"I was askin' another guy that very question," says the sufferer, passing on the lesson with a punch in the jaw for good measure.—Copyright, 1927.

Q. Is there a limit to the time in which a will may be contested? F. H. K.

A. There is nothing in common law limiting the time in which a later will than the one admitted to probate may be produced after an estate has been administered in accordance with a will admitted to probate. Unless a later will be found it is final.

Q. Why is it that a United States flag is placed at the stern of a ship? R. P.

Q. Why is the term "God's country" applied to Australia? E. M.

A. The term "God's country" is often applied to a nation or country by its sons and daughters. A recently published bulletin on Australia calls attention to the fact that among the white inhabitants poverty is practically unknown, the aged, infirm and children are adequately provided for, the labor situation is satisfactory and the territory itself offers unlimited possibility for development, exploitation and the exercise of man's ingenuity. All these things would make it seem a favored spot.

Q. What part of the world's supply of coal is produced by the United States? H. M.

A. On 1924, this country produced 1,354,300,000 metric tons, or 38.3 per cent. of the world supply. Since 1911 our share of the production has ranged from 37.9 per cent. to 46.3 per cent. in 1918.

Q. How high do ocean waves get when there is a storm at sea? M. B.

A. Waves rarely attain a greater height than fifty feet, but they appear to be much higher when seen from a ship. The ship rolls towards the wave, hence the increasing apparent height. Waves frequently reach an enormous size in mid-ocean, and also on rocky coasts. The height of waves is determined by observation and by means of a tide gauge.

Q. What were the names of the men that Peary took on his final dash to the pole? L. W.

A. In his narrative of his expedition to the North pole, Peary states that besides the Negro Henson, he took with him on the final dash four Eskimos, name Ooqueah, Ootah, Egingwah and Seegloo.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Feb. 22—What the Rialto calls "showmanship" has for the past ten years suffered a steady decline. In reality it passed out with the versatile Oscar Hammerstein, who was, next to Barnum, the greatest showman of all time.

Oscar capitalized everything, even his imperial and high-peaked silk hat. He bartered columns of space by merely making his own cigars in a box-like office on Forty-second street. He knew how to dramatize simple gestures into red-inked head lines with a bang.

Perhaps his neatest publicity stunt was the reputed wager to write an opera in twenty-four hours. The opera had been completed several months before, but at an appointed hour Hammerstein appeared at the old Gilsey House and was assigned a suite by the now celebrated Jim Woods, then a clerk.

The impresario went to his piano in the suite and removed his coat and for twenty-four hours thumped the piano. To distract him and attract newspaper attention—the press-agent bettors had German street bands, hurdy gurdys and street singers make hideous noises outside his window.

At the end of the specified time the hay-swooning Hammerstein appeared in the lobby holding aloft his manuscript, and won the wager. Six weeks later the opera "Kohinoor," a really worthy effort, was produced and had a six-month run.

It was no pose with Hammerstein that he cared little for money. He went broke time after time, here and in London, and loved the sounding of trumpets and beating of drums his failures inspired. He was a genius and last of the so-called "showmen."

He left genius also in his wake. His son, Willie, glum and silent, made a fortune in the Old Victoria, featuring freak acts. Arthur, another son, has made a fortune out of the production of "Rose Marie." Oscar Hammerstein II, a grandson, is becoming well known as a composer. A granddaughter, Elaine, is starring in the films. Hammerstein died in comparative poverty after being responsible, more than any other man, for establishing grand opera in America.

It is heartening to see the fair flowers of Broadway bloom again after being wilted in the high-flinging pleasures. There are two show girls, known several years ago for their beauty, who are now playing prominent parts in the theater after Broadway ticketed them as "through." One went abroad and studied for two years and the other joined a stock company in the Middle West for the same period. They shunned the galeties. Each is now living quietly in peaceful neighborhoods and the Broadway haunts that knew them so well see them no more.

A neurologist declares a man may no longer be a gentleman when spiffed. The boozh of the period is blamed. It often causes maniacal destructiveness the victim knows nothing of until informed later. In one of the hotels recently a guest imbibed freely at dinner. He wandered into a hall and before he was stopped had, with a hat rack used as a battering ram, battered in the door of a room whose occupants were totally unknown to him. He had no memory of his frenzy. In an apartment house party, a young man of responsibility drank too deeply and was found two blocks away with an expensive bit of statuary under his coat. He had picked it up in the foyer. A middle-aged woman, returning home from a party in a taxi, was discovered by the driver at her destination with her shoes and stockings removed, kicking wildly out of the open window. It was her first experience with alcohol and likely her last.—Copyright, 1927.

SCHOOL MUSIC CONTEST TO BE HELD MARCH 8

Harding High Contestants To Compete in Central Junior Auditorium

The music contest for Harding High School students will be held the night of March 8 in the auditorium of Central Junior High School, it was announced today by Howard M. Temple, supervisor of music in the public schools.

Howard also gave out the rules which will govern the judging of the various events. The contest will be judged on three points: tone, including quality and accuracy of pitch and balance, 30 points; technique, including memory and inflection in vocal numbers, 30 points; interpretation, including tempo, phrasing and general expression, 40 points. Names of the judges for the contest will be announced later, Howard stated.

The purpose of the contest is to stimulate interest in music among students. "Music teachers are urged to enter their pupils," Temple said, "as young musicians will be given the opportunity to measure their progress and advanced students will be inspired to greater achievement."

The local contest is a preliminary to the proposed triangle music contest in which Marion may take part with Bucyrus and Delaware High Schools at a later date. If the triangle affair goes through as planned the winners of the contest here will compete with the other school winners.

Registration for the Marion contest will be held between Feb. 27 and March 4, at Harding High School. There will be no entries accepted after March 4, Temple stated.

CANTO CLUB TO SING IN THREE NEARBY CITIES

Local Musical Organization Will Give Concert in Galion May 6

The Canto Club will make three appearances in nearby cities this spring, it was announced today by W. E. Orcutt. These engagements are in addition to the local scheduled concert which will mark the last of the series which the Canton Club has given this season.

Date for only one out-town concert has been definitely fixed. On May 6 the Canto Club will go to Galion for a concert. During the first two weeks in March the club will appear at Mansfield, the date not having yet been fixed, and another engagement has been arranged at Mt. Gilead, with no definite date set.

The final concert on the series here will be given on May 2. This will mark the observance by the club, and by musicians generally throughout the city, of the opening of national music week, an event which will bring about many observances throughout the city.

In this final concert the club will have a number of local soloists and will be aided by the Boys' Glee Club of Harding High School.

"I AM ALSO THANKFUL"

Illuminated Bill Smith, as he reflectively eyed a small bit of roast suspended on the end of a wooden toothpick, "that I have learned I must not ask my friends up in my financial affairs. There is but one surer method of losing a friend than to loan him money, and that is to borrow from him. Most about every time you establish a relationship of borrower or borrowee with one of your friends, you might as well bid your friendship farewell, for sooner or later something is going to come up to knock it higher than a kite.

"Marion Chattel Loan Co., 136 S. Main street, is the proper place to have my financial needs satisfied. There is the place I go, and there is the place I need my friends. A good bit ago I learned to be thankful that there was such a place for me, and even more thankful that here I could safely guide those who wish to borrow from me, and I could still have friends."—Adv.

would fall $40,000 short of requirements this year it was believed that all of this difference would have to be made up by a transfer from the city's operating funds. This would have necessitated cuts in expenses by some of the departments and offices with probable crippling of some branches of public service.

$25,000 Set Aside

In drafting the annual appropriation ordinance several weeks ago, council set aside $25,000 in contingent accounts, which cannot be used without special grant from Council. This amount will more than over the sinking fund shortage for the second half of the year and with the $20,000 contribution due from bond issue balances the first half, the difficulties threatened in Treasurer Queen's statement seem to be eliminated, the city auditor states.

Up until about 10 years ago, a plan was in effect here and in other Ohio cities which prevented bond issues from exceeding the cost of improvements. Temporary notes were issued as improvement work progressed, so that when the work was completed, the loans amounted to only the actual cost of the improvement. These notes were taken up with bond issues.

Rule Outlawed

Although many public officials favor this plan and regard it as more business-like and practicable than the one now in use, it can no longer be employed, due to the enactment of a new statue a number of years ago. This statute stipulates that no improvement contract can be let until money to pay for it is actually in the treasury.

Recently the city auditor transferred to the sinking fund a balance of $501 remaining in the sanitary sewer system construction account. This surplus was left after all bills for the treatment plant had been paid, including a damage claim filed by owners of land through which the main sewer line had been laid was settled.

CHINA

...ulary and soldiers in the Chinese quarters were mutinying and joining the Chinese populace. The many executions which the Chinese authorities have carried out have angered the population and it now appears that the defenders of Shanghai are menaced by the Cantonese before the city and by a rebellious population within the city.

The foreign population of Shanghai was kept within the international settlement, and as this dispatch is filed, there has been no disorder within the settlement except for shells falling in the French concession there is no evidence of the battle which seems to be raging virtually at the city gates.

The American marines, the British troops and the Japanese are prepared to go into action if necessary to protect the international settlement, but at this time it appears that there is little danger of any anti-foreign demonstration or violence since the Chinese wrath in Shanghai appears to be directed at the Chinese authorities of the city and not at the foreigners. The Cantonese appear to have hosts of supporters in the city who are now arousing the populace and are rather effectively impeding the defense by the forces within the city.

Sun's Soldiers Wavering

The soldiers of Sun Chuan Fang, defender of Shanghai, are reported to be wavering in their allegiance and there are many who believe that they will lay down their arms rather than give prolonged resistance to the Cantonese advance.

Summary executions continue. The newspapers are featuring gruesome pictures of the decapitated bodies and heads.

The military authorities continue the strictest vigilance against disorders, also directing their efforts toward crushing the strike through threats of drastic punishment to strikers.

Nevertheless, 110,000 workers remain idle, new walk-outs balancing the numbers of those who have returned to work.

The postoffice is closed and mails have not been delivered for four days. Mail from the United States is being stored in warehouses, due to the defacement of some mail by the strikers.

In the harbor there are British, American and Japanese war vessels, all with their guns trained upon the city, ready to shell the city if need be. Landing parties were drawn up late this afternoon and every arrangement had been made for their disembarkment, but as yet there has been no necessity for their landing.

Final pleas to the jury, comprising seven women and five men, were in progress here today. Arguments will be completed this afternoon.

Prosecutor Henry Harter opened argument for the state when court convened this morning. He was to be followed by E. L. Mills and George Gordon Battle, counsel for defense.

MYSTERY ENGINE

A new mystery engine, the most powerful air-cooled motor in the world, underwent tests at an aero-nautical plant in New Jersey recently by inspectors of the United States navy. The motor, which is of the radial type, developed 525 horsepower and was reported to have run at full speed without any structural or mechanical failures showing. The motor will be used exclusively for the present for planes for the United States army and navy. It is expected greatly to improve the performance of torpedo planes, bombing planes and long distance scouting planes.

YOUTH HELD TO JURY ON CHARGES OF BURGLARY

James Smith, 18, Furnishes Bond of $3,000 and Is Released

James Smith, 18, of Bellefontaine, arrested as alleged accomplice in a burglary at the Miller Bros. grocery and restaurant on Cheney av on Sept. 30, was bound over to the grand jury on a $3,000 bond following a hearing in Marion Municipal Court this morning. He furnished the bond and will be at liberty pending grand jury action.

Smith's arrest followed statements made by Charles Redman, 16, and Forest Roush, 17, two boys who were among the 16 taken into custody in the recent round-up of juvenile lawbreakers by local police. He pleaded not guilty when first arraigned in municipal court and his hearing was set for today.

Prisoners Testify

Redman and Roush, recently sent to the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster, were brought here by an official of that institution to appear as witnesses in today's hearing. Roush testified that he and Smith staged the Miller store burglary on Sept. 30 and carried away a quantity of candy and tobacco. Smith took the stand and denied that he was implicated.

The Miller store, according to police, was entered three different times by boys and Redman started to testify that he and young Smith took part in one of the other robberies. The court did not admit this testimony, however, as the affidavit against Smith refers only to the burglary of Sept. 30.

One of the owners of the Miller place was also questioned, his testimony relating to the date of the robbery and the amount of goods stolen.

MUNICIPAL COURT BILLS INTRODUCED BY BENDER

Proposal Submitted Aimed at Authority of Tribunals in Liquor Cases

Bills affecting the jurisdiction of municipal courts in Marion and other Ohio cities were introduced in the legislature by Senator George H. Bender of Cleveland, yesterday.

The proposals submitted as substitutes for a number previously introduced by Senator Bender and killed by committee action, are aimed particularly at authority of the courts in prohibition enforcement cases. Bender seeks to establish laws which would require hearing of all dry law cases in townships where the arrests are made.

The statute providing rules for the local municipal court gives the tribunal county wide jurisdiction. Local officials do not believe that the authority can be taken away by enactment of the Bender proposals.

Asks If Modern Women Are Less Heroic Than Mothers

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

THE women of pioneer days followed their husbands into the wilderness. They fought the primitive conditions, savage beasts and "still more savage men", side by side with them. They seldom have been given the full credit for the part they played in the work of colonization, but the fact remains that there was seldom an heroic male figure who was not backed by an equally heroic woman who "kept the home fires burning" in the wilderness.

Are modern women less heroic? Will they follow their men to the ends of the earth and help them to success, or do they demand the easy life—all the luxuries and none of the hardships?

The following letter seems to indicate that some at least expect life to be made smooth for them at all costs or they "won't play".

• • •

"DEAR Mrs. Lee: I am 21 and engaged to a fine young man. My home has always been in this town and all my relatives and friends are here. My fiance has a good position and is very ambitious and loves to travel and see the world. Now his firm wants to send him to South America as its representative and he is wild to go and wants me to marry him and go with him. But Mrs. Lee, I would die of homesickness in a country where I cannot even speak the language. And I have never been far away from my mother. It would break my heart to give my fiance up and yet I cannot bear to think of going so far away from everyone I have ever known. What shall I do? LILA."

• • •

BOUND to break your heart, aren't you, Lila. Well, if you feel that way about it I think less damage would be done if you broke it at home and released the young man from his engagement. It will hurt him like everything, of course, but better a big hurt now and then healing than bitter disillusionment through life that will take all the heart out of him and may mean his ruin.

Now is your chance to get out of the rut and lead a really colorful life—broaden your vision by learning first-hand about people in another country. Learn to talk another language, to say nothing of helping the man you love to realize his ambitions. If you cannot go with him gladly, enter into his plans and determine to cheer him up, and be his strength if he meets with discouragements—as all of us do—give him up, but don't whine and spend your life in useless regret when he chooses some other girl who will consider it the chance of a lifetime to go with him and share his experiences.

I have heard of women who [illegible] and prevented their husbands [illegible] ing advantageous positions [illegible] they did not like to leave [illegible] towns or objected to the [illegible] positions were in, but that [illegible] have never met any of them.

Rich—
in flavor and as body-building food

Little differences in eating often make a big difference in results. Children grow normally and older persons feel really energetic and well only when they get what all need from their food.

Minerals, vitamins, bran—too often these health essentials are neglected in planning meals. That is why nutrition experts are now saying that the whole-grain foods are so much better.

A bowl of Quick Mother's Oats, with milk, supplies an abundance of important nourishing elements. For it is made from the real whole-grain; it is not robbed of its original health substances, as so many too-highly refined cereals are; it is complete.

And oh, how smoothly Quick Mother's Oats cooks, due to the extra care used in preparation!

Two kinds—the kind you have always known as Quick (cooks in 2½ to 5 minutes). Both with coupons interchangeable with Aunt Jemima coupons, good for many things you want—silverware, etc.

FOR Acid Stomach PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

BETTER THAN SODA

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. Besides, it neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges this scouring waste from the system without purging. It is far more pleasant to take than soda.

TRY A 25c BOTTLE

Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drug-store. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.—Adv.

CHAPTER FORTY-SIX

The revelations thus afforded me were amazing. It soon became apparent that under the general control of the Center the fourteen men assembled beneath me had divided the world between them into fourteen districts, in which each was solely responsible, not only for the smuggling, but in many cases for the manufacture, sale and distribution of every conceivable species of dangerous drug, though they dealt for the most part in cocaine, morphin and heroin. Details were reported of a hundred ingenious forms of smuggling and of the ways in which the tracks of smugglers were covered, together with the amounts of the drugs sold or manufactured and the actual estimated profits.

The magnitude of the figures astounded me. For the purpose of calculating profits the ring had apparently adopted the American gold dollar as the standard of valuation. The profits of one section alone, dealing with France and Germany, in terms of this currency ran into millions. After each report a discussion ensued during which various suggestions were made, usually with the object of increasing the profits gained or suggesting new ways of handling the illicit market.

The reading of these reports took a considerable time, but not so long as might be expected, since the men who submitted them were obviously business men to whom time was money, and they wasted no words. I strove as best I could to memorize all that I heard, but my ignorance of the subject and of many of the terms which they used made the task difficult and in fact almost impossible. In imagination I saw the whole vast network of activities thus displayed.

Every stage in every branch of the traffic was incidentally revealed, and I seemed to see, as I listened in the darkness, a fantastic procession in which Chinese coolies, feeble and emaciated, came upon the heels of prosperous shareholders in the drug companies of Switzerland and Germany; with multitudes of seedy young men making strange signs in the streets by night; with long files of officials in motley garments following endless squadrons of men and women engaged in smuggling the drugs over the frontiers; with endless lines, receding infinitely far back into the gloom, of men and women in every stage of destitution and misery. My ears were filled with the cries of these unhappy wretches, in every accent and language, imploring their own destruction. And rising insistently, in every pause of this miserable litany, I could hear the perpetual chink and rustle of money gathered in from every quarter of the world.

At the end of the discussion on the report of Number 13, I heard the Center say: "Number 14."

"Mithter Thenter," replied a voice with a rich Hebraic lisp, "I am inthructed by my printhipal to thay that he ith forwarding hith report to you in the uthual thipher in a few dayth. He regreth that hith illness hath prevented him from completing it and me from bringing it directly."

There was a moment's pause.

"Do you not make verbal report?" inquired the Center.

Again there was a pause.

"Then the Jew replied, "Nothing of thpethial importance, exthept that we are being hampered by the increathed price of Perthian opium."

His words let loose a flood of talk. More than one had apparently suffered inconvenience from the same cause. Terms such as silver tomans and kharvas were freely bandied about. It appeared that Persia was taking advantage of the disorganization of Turkey and the consequent decrease in the cultivation of the poppy in Asia Minor to set a higher price on her own opium; and as the opium grown in the neighborhood of Dizful and Shuster, east of the river Tigris, was especially rich in morphia (and, therefore, of special use to those of the Ring interested in the purveying of that drug and its noxious alkaloid, heroin) this increase in price had resulted in a slight decrease in the profits. I heard a guttural voice with a strong German accent complaining bitterly.

"I did hardly my turnover double this year and last year I did it more than treble."

After some discussion it was decided that the increased cost should be passed on to the consumers, and the illicit price of morphia in London, New York, Paris, Amsterdam, Rome, Madrid, Berlin and a large number of other cities should be raised ten per cent.

When this decision had been taken there was another silence. Then I heard the Center speak again.

"I have now, gentlemen, remarkable stroke of good fortune to put before you. On the third of this month I receive message from Mr. Finckelstein, with whom we have dealings. I not tell you who is Mr. Finckelstein for he ask me to preserve honorable incognito, but I assure you he person of highest responsibility, though I never met him face to face but only corresponded. As they say in United States of America, what he say always go. But he very cautious man. He send messages in highly cryptic manner. This one I receive in ingenious handkerchief in way that remain very special and without precedent quite baffling to police of all countries. Message say, that seven hundred and thirty-one thousand kilograms cocaine, sixty-five thousand kilograms morphine, surplus war stock, supposed destroyed by Swiss Government, at your disposal."

He paused and I heard a murmur, instantly quelled as he began to speak again.

"This very large consignment," he continued. "Sufficient make us independent of other means of supplying market for six months."

"That is difficult thing," replied the Center. "He asks twenty-five Swiss francs per kilogram, or $3,687,500. That very large sum of money, gentlemen. Question now is whether we accept so high price or bargain strongly with firm offer."

There ensued a debate to which I paid but little attention. Here at last was the meaning of the mysterious handkerchief which had been the cause of the death of Claypole and of all my troubles and adventures. Its significance was now revealed, though I had yet to discover how the message had been concealed in it. The knowledge, I reflected bitterly, was of little use to me now. Had Claypole been in my place he might have dealt with the position. As it was me, even if I escaped, who would believe the wild and incredible story I should have to tell?

I had by this time been lying on the boards for hours, but owing to the intense interest of what I had heard, I had not hitherto noticed my personal discomfort. An acute twinge in my left thigh, however, apprised me of the fact that I was in a very awkward posture. Meanwhile the argument was in full swing below me. Some thought that Finckelstein's offer should be accepted as it stood; others that the price quoted was too high.

Cautiously I moved my left leg. The relief was exquisite, and I stretched it unwarily. In doing so I must have turned my body slightly, for I felt my balance going and instinctively put out a hand to save myself. My arm came into sudden contact with a rough surface on my right and, to my horror, burst through it with a slight rending sound, letting a flood of light into my hiding place.

"Lieber Gott, vat is that?" exclaimed one of the men below.

I withdrew my hand in haste.

At that instant, however, I overbalanced completely. There was a rending sound, light blinded my eyes, and I felt landing with a crash on what I shortly discovered to be a large green-covered table, round which were seated fifteen as astonished persons as any in the world.

Continued Tomorrow

SOPHISTICATED AND YOUTHFUL GOWNS

Sophistication and youthfulness are expressed by the two dresses pictured above. Both are black.

The gown suitable for the older woman is sketched on the left. It is an afternoon model of black chiffon in slimline mode trimmed with fringe, and has a scarf collar which ties in front.

A black evening frock worn by a young woman is always arresting and is a decidedly serviceable addition to the wardrobe. The one pictured has a tight fitting satin bodice with a white net yoke. The skirt is of net, tiered, each tier being edged with white.

A huge white rose is posed at the waistline.

Quicksands of Love

BY ADELE GARRISON

Mary's Terror

I HAD reached the door of Mary's room after her odd impassioned appeal to me, to remember that no matter what she did, she loved me, when a sudden thought I turned back again.

"I'll just make sure that it is impossible for that woman to get in here," I said, and walking to the door which Mary once had asked me not to have closed up on account of a possible fire hazard, I assured myself that the bolts were shot home, and as an additional precaution I turned the massive old-fashioned key in the lock and then pocketed it. Mary watched me with startled eyes into which there suddenly flashed a look of dismay.

"Oh, Auntie Madge!" she said. "You're not going to take the key away with you, are you?"

"Why not, Mary?" I asked quietly. "Then I'll be sure that Mrs. Baker can not possibly wheedle you into letting her into your room."

"But," she persisted, "she surely never will attempt to come in here again after what you said to her. You told her you know, that I had complained to you, and she'll be terribly angry at me. She never will want to see me again."

"I'm not so sure of that, Mary," I told her.

"I am," she said stubbornly. "Besides, if she did want to come in, she could come to the other door, the one leading into the public hall."

"But she won't do that after what I've said to her," I said confidently. "She would be afraid that either Mrs. Beckett or I would see her. No, no, Mary, depend upon it, if she asks for admittance at any door it will be the one I have just locked which leads into that disused corner of the hall, and to which she can come so easily from the fourth floor without anyone seeing her."

"I suppose you are right at that," Mary said decilely, then she sat up in bed, her eyes suddenly darkened with anxiety.

"But, Auntie Madge," she said, "won't you please give the key back to me tonight when you come up with my milk. You don't know how I feel about it. I'm so afraid of fire. I always have been since one time when I was little. Mother fri—I mean," she amended hastily, "I was horribly frightened when I set my dress afire when I was playing with matches. Always since then I've dreamed about being in a house which was on fire, and of trying to get down a blazing stairway. I've felt so safe with this key and that door because you can get directly to a fire escape from it. If I didn't have the key, I know I wouldn't sleep a wink. And I promise you if Mrs. Baker knocks on that door and asks me to let her in, I shall come directly to you, and tell you about it. I don't mind not having that key in the daytime, but at night, please Auntie Madge, give it back to me."

I might have doubted the sincerity of this outburst, if it had not been for one inadvertent reference. She had begun to say that her mother had frightened her about fire, and then in loyalty to the dead woman had changed her phraseology. But too well for my own peace of mind I remembered the terror which I once had witnessed in Mary as her mother led her away to some ingeniously cruel punishment. Always after that I had had a horror of Dicky's sister, Elizabeth, and the placid hypocrisy which was hers in her dealing with her children. I did not doubt that her mother's cruelty had left the horror of fire with her, and with the dread of being in any way a party to that old terror, I walked back to the bed, and put the key into her hand.

Samuel Davis Says He Can Never Be Too Grateful to Tepee Herb Tonic

The boys and girls who attend Washington School in Elyria, O., are not the only ones who learn lessons there. Samuel Davis, custodian of the school, recently learned that Tepee Herb Tonic was a splendid system tonic.

REDWOOD

"For years I had something the matter with my right side—in the region of my gall bladder," says Mr. Davis. "Sometimes my complexion was very yellow. I tried so many medicines without results that I had about given up hope that anything would help me.

"Recently I almost gave out. I could scarcely drag myself about. My stomach bothered me, too, and I had about made up my mind to have an operation.

"Eventually, however, I tried Tepee Herb Tonic and found that it was different from anything else. It helped me almost at once. I kept right on taking it and now I'm feeling good for the first time in years. I sleep soundly and get up in the morning full of 'pep.' My food digests better."

Mr. Davis lives at 270 Harrison St., Elyria.

Tepee Herb Tonic is sold and recommended by Bradley's, Henney & Cooper's, Wm. M. Stump, Bartlett's and all drug stores; Richwood, H. D. Kyle, and by well stocked drug stores everywhere.—Adv.

Home Treatment For Gall Stones Highly Praised

Reports from Many Grateful Users Say It Saved Them an Operation. Pleasant and Inexpensive to Use.

For over a year now, many drug stores throughout the middle west have been recommending an inexpensive tablet called "Klax-Ko" for the successful home treatment of gall stones, gall bladder trouble and hepatic torpidity.

According to written reports the simple home use of "Klax-Ko" tablets has produced wonderfully beneficial results in hundreds of cases. Men and women of all ages, but particularly those in middle life seem to be especially benefited. One man says—"I suffered greatly from gall stone and liver trouble. Doctor said I must have an operation. The night before I was scheduled for the hospital a friend insisted I try "Klax-Ko" tablets first. I commenced to feel better and in a few days was out of the house and back to work and I haven't ever had an attack since. I surely am grateful for Klax-Ko."

If you are bothered by dizzy spells, headaches, shortness of breath, gas in stomach and bowels, pressure or sharp pains in right side that often shoot through to the back, coated tongue, bad breath, lack of ambition, weakness, nervousness and restless nights, you should give "Klax-Ko" tablets a trial at once, and you are invited to do so without slightest risk of cost unless fully pleased with results. Ask Bradley Drug Store or any good druggist for Klax-Ko today.—Adv.

Home-made Remedy Stops Cough Quickly

Finest cough medicine you ever used. Family supply easily made. Saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant—children like it, and it is pure and good.

Pour 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid, too, for bronchitis, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, famous for healing the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Patsy's Patter

Gossip and Guesses in the World of Sport

By Pat Murphy

FEBRUARY 22 is celebrated as the anniversary of the birth of George Washington, "Father of his Country." Most historians in building romantic histories of the first president, seem to have forgotten that the great soldier and statesman was first of all a human being. Little has been said in the histories treating of Washington of the side of the man which could be called a sportsman. However, in the last few years, some writers have departed from the cold blooded, steel engraved portraits of the great patriot to show this side of his nature.

It is history that Washington was a keen follower of different sports. The two which claimed the greater part of his attention were race horses and fox hunting. Long after his death, neighbors and friends represented him as being passionately fond of the chase and the turf.

Entries in the diaries of Washington, never published until recent years, indicate that he seldom, if ever, missed the spring or fall meeting at Annapolis until a year or two before the war for independence. He went also to Alexandria, where he was a member of the Jockey Club, and frequently to Philadelphia and Williamsburg, where he subscribed to a fund raised by Anthony Hay, proprietor of the historic Raleigh Tavern, to be hung up as purses for the runners.

That Washington sometimes bet on the races we have his own testimony, in the form of entries in his carefully kept books of account. Under date of Oct. 10, 1772, there is this item of expense: "By cash lost on the races, one pound, six shillings." On this visit to Annapolis, he was the guest of Sir Robert Eden, English governor of Maryland, and breeder of the dam of the famous English race horse, Eclipse, whose descendants still dominate the race courses in all parts of the civilized world.

Perhaps the most interesting fact about Washington as a horseman that has come to light by the publication of his diaries is that he bred pacers and raced them. It has long been known that he kept the thoroughbred stallion Magnolia in the stud at Mount Vernon in 1785, but this horse seems to have been owned by his kinsman, Lund Washington. That he raised thoroughbreds or raced them has never been established. In the diary for Sunday, May 11, 1760, is his own testimony, however, that while Mrs. Washington went to church that day, he stayed at home to attend the mating of "my black pacing mare." And under August 20, 1768, we find the entry: "Went to a Purse Race at Accotink and returned with Messrs. Robert and George Alexander."

All of which goes to show that the "father of his country" found recreation in sports, and in this respect was no different from those who have followed him.

THE next heavyweight extravaganza will be staged at Madison Square Garden Friday night. There will be unveiled there on that evening a brand new importation in Paulino Uzcudun. Although Uzcudun comes from sunny Spain he is not a toreador. He is a woodchopper. It seems that his woodchopping was attended by so much health that he became far too strong for his modest calling and decided to become a fighter.

The Spaniard never has been seen in the ring by anyone in this country. He has warmed up for this bout by tipping over a couple of inconspicuous heavyweights in Cuba and then broke his right knuckle on Homer Smith in Tampa—a high price to pay for beating Smith.

Uzcudun's opponent will be Knute Hansen, the Dane, who interrupted the ambitious heavyweight flight of Monte Munn several weeks ago. Hansen has been three years before the mast and has gained considerable knowledge about fighting from sailors in many ports. It can readily be seen that this bout is going to cause a stir among the woodchoppers and the marines.

Tuso was discovered by a gruff conductor soon after the Athletics' train pulled out of West Philadelphia. The entire party listened to the lad's tale of woe. He said he is a shortstop and wanted to try out with Connie Mack. Tuso pleaded to be taken South, but owing to his youthfulness he was put off the train at Wilmington, Del., and given enough carfare to get home.

Secretary Moses said he had requested Alexander McNulty to make an investigation of the matter.

He expressed his intention of taking up the question of supervising ticket sales for fights in the future at a conference with the Governor.

Fairfield Engineers Defeat Huber Cagers; Osgoods and Commercials Stage Battle Under Professional Rules and "Doc" King Calls 34 Personal Fouls

BY EDDIE SCHOENLEB
Sports Editor, The Star

THE Columbus, Delaware and Marion Electric Co. basketball team last night cinched the Marion Industrial League title when, minus Doug Torrence and Fried Phillians, it slaughtered the Marion Business College quintet 40 to 19 for the eleventh consecutive victory of the season.

In the next game, its closest rival for the championship bit the dust before the powerful attack of the Osgood basketeers. The Commercials, having lost only three games, bowed to the Osgood crew for the second time this season. The score was 21 to 18. The defeat dropped the Commercials into a second place tie with the Railway Service.

In the third game of the night, the up-and-coming Fairfield Engineers walked away with Hubers in the last half and won, 22 to 4

Battle First Half

The Collegians put up a great battle against the C., D. & M. crew in the first half last night but Shults, the tall lumbering center of the College team, fired in the final stanza and the Electricians ambled right along. The score at half-time was 14 to 10 with the C., D. & M. leading.

Minard made 10 field goals for half the points scored by his team. Fetter and Yazel each made eight and Davis collected the other four. The scoring was evenly divided among the Collegians.

The games last night were again featured by an upset in the "dope bucket." Osgoods once more stepped on the Commerical quintet, actually outplaying the team that gave the C., D. & M. such a great battle last week. The Commercials had only five players in uniform and the Osgoods had but six so, by mutual agreement of the captains, war was waged under professional rules. Personal fouls failed to place a man on the bench. He could "knock 'em down and carry 'em out" and still be playing. While this did not actually occur it is interesting to note that a total of 34 personal fouls were called during the game. Commercials got 16 of them and Osgoods received 18.

Personal Foul Contest

Penry and Ninny Irwin took part in a foul making contest and after working hard during the entire skirmish, ended in a deadlock, each having only seven to his credit. Rinehart and Sheehe of the Osgoods had four or more personal fouls inflicted upon them. "Doc" King might have called a few more on each of the players but we are glad that he refrained from officiating too closely. We would have seen nothing but a foul shooting contest.

The score at the half was 10 to 9 with Osgoods leading. It was a red hot battle during the second half. At no time was one team more than three points in advance of its opponent. With the score standing 18 to 17 and two minutes to go, Parr, Osgood center, practically cinched the victory by making a field goal and bringing the Osgood count to the 20 mark. Penry made a free throw for Commercials but failed to gain ground when, 10 seconds later, Ninny Irwin duplicated the feat.

Easy for Fairfields

Chenoweth of the Huber team last night scored a field goal and free throw for three of his team's four points in the game with the Fairfield Engineers. Strine made the other counter. The field goal came in the first half and the free throws were marked up in the final stanza.

The Engineers made little headway in the initial portion of the fray. The score at halftime was only 8 to 2 in their favor. The second half, however, with Peadon throwing them in from all angles for the Engineers, was a different story. Peadon made 15 points in all, Fischer collected four, and Lingo caged three.

Only two more rounds remain to be played in the Industrial League.

"BLOW-OFF" TONIGHT

Six Strong Big Ten Basketball Teams To Play Tonight

Chicago, Feb. 22—The "blow-off" in the fast-ebbing race for basketball supremacy of the Big Ten conference is promised tonight when six strong teams go forth to battle in three widely scattered strongholds of the Conference domain.

Chicago meets Michigan at Ann Arbor, Ohio State journeys to Bloomington, Ind., to tackle the pace-setting Hoosiers, and Wisconsin goes up against the fast going Hawkeyes at Iowa City.

As matters now stand, Indians has a half game lead of Michigan, Wisconsin, Purdue and Iowa, all tied for second place. Purdue is the only team of the five leaders not carded tonight. If Ohio State succeeds in upsetting the rejuvenated Hoosiers, which is not regarded as likely, two of the second place fives may go into the lead. Michigan is "doped" to defeat Chicago, while the result of the Wisconsin-Iowa clash is a toss-up.

Midways Meet Lauer Five on Prospect Gym Tonight

The Midway Luncheon quintet will journey to Prospect tonight. Its object is to turn in the second victory of the season over the Lauer Tailors of that village. The Prospect boys are asking a return game presumably to get revenge for the 19 to 17 defeat suffered here Friday at the hands of the Midways.

It will be the greatest basketball game witnessed in Prospect so far this season. One of the largest crowds ever to turn out for a cage contest is expected to be on hand when the Midways stack up against the Lauer quintet in its own stronghold.

Not only Prospect fans will be on the sidelines. It is expected that Marion will be well represented in that village tonight. All who saw the battle between two of the best amateur teams in the county here last Friday know that the game at Prospect tonight will be war from start to finish.

The Midways have lost a couple of games away from home but have never been defeated on the Star auditorium court. The Tailors lost to the locals Friday for the first time this season. They have never yet been defeated on their home floor.

The Tailors without a doubt have one of the best teams ever to represent Prospect on the hardwood floor. Wainfor and Conwell at forwards are enough to assure spectators that it will be a close battle. In addition to these two men, the Prospect quintet is well equipped with former high school stars of Prospect and Green Camp.

The Midways will invade Prospect with their regular crew. Whether or not they will return with the bacon is a matter of conjecture. A large number of fans will travel southward tonight to aid in bringing home the victory—if it's possible.

GIBSON "GOING WEST"

Chicago, Feb. 22—Boxing fans today were discussing the brief visit here of Billy Gibson, manager of Gene Tunney, who stopped over a few hours yesterday on his way to the coast. Gibson said his business here and farther west was "to look over the fight situation." He conferred with Promoter Jim Mullen concerning the appearance in Chicago of Benny Leonard, retired lightweight champion. Leonard, it is understood, intends to re-enter the ring as a welterweight.

Pleasant and Kirk Girls to Battle For East County Title Wednesday

THE girls' county basketball classic of the season will be staged Wednesday night on the Y. M. C. A. gym court when Pleasant and Kirkpatrick schools clash for the championship of the east county section league. The winner of the game will meet Morral girls of the west section for the county title in the Star auditorium, Friday night.

Pleasant and Kirk have each won five games and lost one. After getting away to a slow start, Kirkpatrick girls loomed as a dark horse in the east county league race three weeks ago when they handed Pleasant a trimming on the Pleasant Township court. Until that time, Pleasant was undefeated.

Caledonia was in the race until a week ago when Claridon handed them cold in the greatest surprise league game of the season. Pleasant put them out for good Friday night by winning by a large margin on the Caledonia floor. Kirk defeated Waldo 17 to 2 in the final league game Friday night.

According to present standings Kirk seem to have a slight edge on the feminine crew from Pleasant Township. The Kirkpatrick girls only two weeks ago defeated Pleasant on the latter's floor. Pleasant, however, showed that it was far from being weak when it defeated Caledonia Friday night.

Morral girls have long ago cinched the title in the west league and have only one defeat chalked up against them for the entire season. They claim one of the greatest combinations ever seen on the floor at Morral.

The preliminary event to the girls' game Wednesday night will feature the Kirk and Pleasant boys in another tussle. Each team has defeated the other crew this season and the game Wednesday on a neutral floor will serve to settle the dispute as to just which boasts the best outfit.

There was a double tie for the girls' east county section basketball league, at the close of the season Friday night, while Kirk and Pleasant were in a deadlock for first place Claridon and Caledonia were tied for second position. Each team has lost four games and won two. Claridon girls made an excellent showing towards the end of the season despite the fact that they had no gym in which to hold their practice sessions and were compelled to play all their home games on the Marion floor.

Waldo the only other team in the girls' league, had tough luck all season. They were unable to win during the first few games but might have stood a chance in the last two but lost several of their regulars become ill. The Waldo team lost all six of its league games.

There were no ties in the boys' league in the east section while it looked for some time as if Martel would give Caledonia a great scrap for the title honors of this section several weeks ago when Pleasant knocked off the Martel crew.

Caledonia finished with six victories and no defeats. Martel came second with four wins and two setbacks. The Martel lads suffered defeat at the hands of Pleasant and Caledonia. Waldo finished last. By winning Friday night against Kirk, the boys from that village made it three and three in the standing. Pleasant boys were in fourth position with two victories and four defeats and Kirk occupied the cellar with no wins and six downfalls.

More interest than ever before was shown in both boys' and girls' games in the east section and a large number of representatives of the schools in that portion of the county are expected to be on hand when the finals are played in the Star auditorium Friday night.

Here's how the season closed Friday night in the east league:

Babe Ruth In Marvelous Physical Condition, Says Artie McGovern, Trainer

Taking His Exercises Daily and Has Not Recently Indulged in Liquor or Other Stimulants, Declares McGovern; Leaves for New York Saturday

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, Feb. 22—George Ruth, Herman, seems to be paying off those bets where you stand on the steps at noon and sing Mother Machree in a loud, firm tone until exiled or arrested or both. That, anyway, was the impression I gained today from a communique furnished on the Babe man's state of health by Artie McGovern, his Simon Legree. The latter says that George or Herman or Babe is taking his exercises daily at 6:30 a. m. in the morning.

He also says that George is in "serious physical condition," which means everything. There had to be something the matter with a man who would get up in the middle of the night and shake hands with his foot.

However, inexplicable circumstances to the contrary, George, it appears, is entirely free of recent indulgence in liquor, food and tobacco, only Mr. McGovern attempts to conceal the fact by referring to them respectively as alcohol, caffeine and nicotine, indicating that the Tunney influence on athletic conversation is becoming more widespread every day.

It further appears that George has been nothing since his arrival in Hollywood except exercise, eat, sleep and act. Mr. McGovern is taking full responsibility for the last claim. He doesn't say whether or not he caught George at it red handed.

"I put the Babe through two drills a day, one at 6:30 a. m. at the hotel and the other at noon at the studio," says the man of muscle. "The morning work is devoted to specific abdominal exercises and at noon we work for speed and perspiration, doing exercises such as boxing, handball and rope skipping.

"The Babe has either reformed or else his work at the studio has so fascinated him that fifteen or sixteen hours of work a day has brought not one kick out of him. He is forced to be at the studio from 8 a. m. until all hours of the night. However, this has proved beneficial because Ruth has no time hanging heavy on his hands. For ten days he has done nothing but eat, sleep, act and exercise.

"I have never known him to be in such marvelous physical condition. He has been very sane regarding his diet and has entirely eliminated all stimulants such as alcohol, caffeine and nicotine."

Mr. McGovern intimates that George is going through this form of manual murder without the union wage. All, indeed, he will get out of it is about $100,000, starting promptly on April 12.

Argument by deponent and defendant will be heard within the next two weeks. It will be heard by everybody east of Suez. Weighing a trifle over 220 pounds, George will depart from Hollywood on Saturday with New York the first of two objectives. The other will be Jake Ruppert's fountain pen.

CHRISTIANS AND REFORMS STILL IN TITLE RACE

Christians Defeat Presbyterians and Reforms Wallop Epworth Quintet

The Reforms and Christians continued in a neck and neck race for the title in the Junior Sunday School basketball league last night by defeating Epworth M. E. cagers and Presbyterians, respectively. Reforms walloped the Epworth quintet 39 to 9 while the Central Christians slaughtered the Presbyterians, 44 to 8.

They all made the points for Reforms last night. N. Klingel and Ruhl led, however, with 12 and 10 counters each. Partridge, Epworth center, made five of the nine points recorded for his team. The Reforms led the score after the first few minutes of play and were never threatened.

Gillis and Fetter together made all but six of the 44 points credited the Central Christians. Gillis collected 17 and Fetter caged 21 markers. Walker, Merkle, and Turner were the scorers on the Presbyterian quintet.

PLAY DAIRIES WEDNESDAY

Here's the Marion Steam Shovel professional basketball squad. These men, with the addition of Roll of the Kinnears, will take on the Isaly Dairy crew Wednesday night in the second battle of the five-game series in which the two teams are participating. The game will be played on the Shovel court. Reading from left to right in the above picture we find the following men: Top row, "Ninny" Irwin, Andrews, Scoop Irwin and Ward. Bottom row, Bacon, Schwab, Compton, Bohyer and Wilson.

DELANEY OUT FOR TWO MONTHS WITH INJURIES

New York, Feb. 22—Jack Delaney will be out of the ring for two months as a result of injuries sustained in his bout with Jimmy Maloney, according to Dr. W. G. Fralick, who examined the light heavyweight champion. Delaney is suffering from a badly dislocated left thumb and a strained muscle in his right arm.

MAIDEN IS VICTOR

Chicago, Feb. 22—Bartley Madden, middle-aged New York heavyweight, today held whatever honor there was in winning a decision over John Metoquah, Indian chief who hails from "somewhere west of the Mississippi." They met in the ten-round main event at White City last night. The fight was a keen disappointment to the 3,000 assembled fans.

Harry Schwab and Bruz Robbins Will Make Final Appearance Here Wednesday

Many important features mark the second appearance of the Marion Steam Shovels and Isaly Dairies on the hardwood floor for the second tilt in the five game series being staged by the two teams. The game takes place Wednesday night on the Steam Shovel gym floor, W. Center st.

It will be the final appearance this year of Harry Schwab, easy going center on the Shovel team, in a Marion basketball uniform. Harry leaves next week with the Cincinnati Reds for their baseball training camp. He is one of the best centers ever to play on a Marion crew and fans are disappointed to see him leave in the middle of the interesting Dairy Shovel series.

In addition, the Steam Shovels will be without the services of Bob Wilson, regular forward, who will be unable to get here for the game. Charley Roll of the Kinnears will fill his position with Bohyer holding down the other forward post. Otherwise the Shovel team will start as usual with Bacon and Compton, guards and Schwab, center.

While Bruz Robbins will probably be here for the game Wednesday night to play with the Dairies, it will be his last appearance in a Dairy uniform this season. He is now employed in Meadville, Pa., and will be unable to report for the games. Fried Phillians another Isaly team, left a week ago for California and will not be here again this winter.

"Wes" Claffin, resident of Marion and formerly an Isaly star, will again be seen in a Dairy suit Wednesday night. "Grift" is attending Bliss College of Columbus and is captain of the college team. Bliss, by the way, has suffered very, very few defeats this season and has a long string of victories to its credit.

Reserved seats for the second great clash are on sale at Mackert & Lewis. They're going fast and are expected to be gone Wednesday morning. The Shovel gym will accommodate a large number of spectators with the new four tier bleachers which have been erected. The stage will also be used to increase the seating capacity.

More than 900 persons paid admission into the Star auditorium when the first game of the series was staged. It is estimated that 1,000 persons will pack the Steam Shovel hall Wednesday night for the second tilt. Special preparations have been made to accommodate a huge number of fans.

AMERICANS MAY WIN

From present indications three Americans may win places in the Oxford shell for the annual race with Cambridge on the Thames River course in England next month.

Personally, I smoke for pleasure!

ON THAT basis alone, I select the tobacco that gives me pleasure in the greatest measure. (I wasn't deliberately trying to make a rhyme.) That tobacco is Prince Albert . . . good old Prince Albert, known as The National Joy Smoke—and for good reason!

Have you never known the thrill of opening a tidy red tin of this fine old favorite and inhaling that wonderful fragrance? Have you never sat at one end of a pipe with P. A. at the other end and tasted that marvelous smoke? Then it's high time to start!

Buy yourself some Prince Albert today. Fill your pipe to the brim and light up. Notice how refreshingly cool it is, no matter how fast you feed it. Notice, too, that it is mild without sacrificing that full, rich body which you demand in a smoking tobacco.

I tell you in all sincerity: If you have never smoked Prince Albert, you simply don't know how good that old jimmy-pipe can taste. No matter how satisfied you think you are, try a tin of Prince Albert. No friend ever gave you a straighter tip.

"My Catarrh is all gone"

What freedom in those words! Only those can realize who know the distress of clogged nose, catarrhal deafness, offensive breath, raising of mucus, and lowered vitality due to catarrh. Yet thousands still endure catarrh needlessly, because they are treating symptoms instead of the cause.

Catarrh is an inflamed condition of the mucous membrane—the delicate lining of the air passages of nose, throat and head. When this is corrected, catarrh disappears.

Salves and ointments give only temporary relief. But Hall's Catarrh Medicine because it goes directly to the cause has been successful for over 40 years. Ask your druggist. Price 85c. F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventures

BY JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS

That was George Washington's birthday, and it was a holiday in ... and it is always a holiday on ... Monday and every city has got a present to him, because he was the man that could not tell a lie. He has never been one like him.

When I was feeding my face this morning my father asted my grandfather if he didn't suppose George told lies after he got married, and grandfather said, "I thought you said George married a widow." And my father said "What has that got to do with it?" And my grandfather said it wasn't any use to lie to a widow. He said a fella might fool an old maid but the widows had his number. I he grinned at my ant when he said that, but she pretends she isn't an old maid so she did not pay him any mind.

We all went up town to see if there was going to be a peerade. There wasn't. It is not a holiday for working men. A gravel autos and a big open passenger auto was stopped for the lights. The man in the front gravel auto was a friend of the other gravel auto man, and the front man was eating bananas, and he picked one up off the seat that was too ripe and got out of the auto and took it out of the skin and flang it at his friend as hard as he could fling it, but his friend ducked his head and it went over him; and a lady in the other side of the passenger car stuck her face out from behind the windshield to see why they didn't go on and she stopped the banana with her face, and it spread all over it, and the lady with her jumped out and ran to get to the front gravel auto, and the gravel man was trying to start it as fast as he could, and the man reached up and drug him out, and the gravel man kept saying, "I am sorry! I am sorry!" But he was laughing, and the man said, "I want you to look sorry!" And he punched him on the nose and the man clinch with him, and then the other man pulled them apart, and then the man that was with the lady punched them both.

They was both on the ground

He could sure fight for a man dressed up like he was. When he got done they was both on the ground with their backs against the front car and the lady had got out, and she said to the man, "You be quiet!" And he said to her "Get back in that car if you don't want to be thrown in!" And she got in. So they must be married. They driv off. Me and Jubilee enjoyed it. I wish there had been more Washingtons.

Daily Bedtime Story

BY HOWARD GARIS

Uncle Wiggily and His Friends

"You had better not go out today," said Nurse Jane Fuzzy one morning as Uncle Wiggily hopped down the stairs of his hollow stump bungalow to get his breakfast of carrot pancakes with turnip sugar scattered over them.

"Why not?" asked Mr. Longears. "I must have an adventure, you know, and where shall I find it if I don't go out?"

"Perhaps Nurse Jane and I could make an adventure for you," said Uncle Wiggily's wife. "Or some of our forty 'leven little bunnies might; to say nothing of Baby Bunty who makes it forty twelve." Bunty was paying a visit to the rabbit house, getting better of her toothache.

"Thank you," answered Uncle Wiggily politely, "but I want to hunt my own adventures. I don't understand, though, why I shouldn't go out. Why not?"

"Because it is snowing so hard," squeaked the muskrat lady housekeeper. And when the rabbit gentleman looked out o fa window he saw, indeed, that the snow was coming down thick and fast.

But this did not frighten him. Uncle Wiggily loved snow. After breakfast he put on his tall silk boots—I mean his tall silk hat—and his long rubber boots and, taking his red, white and blue striped rheumatism crutch, which Nurse Jane had gnawed for him out of a cornstalk, he sallied forth, as they say in story books about the knights of old. Uncle Wiggily sallied forth, which means he hopped out. And, at once, he found that in very sooth, as a knight would say, in very sooth the snow was quite deep.

"But I can hop through the drifts on my red, white and blue rheumatism crutch," said the bunny.

So he went along this way, sticking his crutch down in a drift and then, catching hold of the top of it—the top of his crutch I mean—and leaning over it—leaping over the drift you understand.

Thus Uncle Wiggily traveled on and on, through the snow storm, but though he was out, no adventures seemed to be out and not one could he find, which was very disappointing.

"Nurse Jane was right. I should have stayed home and let the little bunny boys and girls make adventures for me," thought Mr. Longears, for Jingle, Jangle, Tooter, Scooter and all the others had stayed home from school on account of the storm. "I'll go back to my bungalow!" said Mr. Longears.

But this was easier said then done. For when he drew near to the front door there, sitting in a drift of snow was the Bushy Bear.

"Ha! The Bad chap is waiting for me to come along so he can grab me!" thought Uncle Wiggily who had seen the Bear first, without the Bear seeing the rabbit. "I'll go around to the back door."

But when Uncle Wiggily had hopped softly around to the back door there, in a drift of snow, sat the Fuzzy Fox, licking his chops hungrily.

"Ho! Another bad chap! There are many out today!" thought the bunny gentleman. "Well, I can't go in the back door, either. I'll try a side window." So he hopped to one side of his bungalow, intending to tap on the glass with his crutch so his wife or Nurse Jane would open the sash so he could jump in.

But at the west window, in a snow drift, sat the Woozie Wolf. Uncle Wiggily saw this bad chap first, in time to hide behind a bank of snow without being seen by the Wolf.

"I shall have to try the other window," though Mr. Longears. But when he hopped softly to the east window, there crouched the Bob Cat. "Dear me! I can't get in either by doors or windows!" thought Uncle Wiggily. "What shall I do? Then he happened to notice how deep the snow was and he remembered a cellar window near the back door.

"I'll make a tunnel through the snow, crawl through it to the cellar window and get in that way!" said the bunny. "I'll fool the bad chaps yet!"

No sooner said than done. Quietly Uncle Wiggily began digging under the drifts of snow, making a tunnel such as the trains go through, only the rabbit's tunnel was white instead of black. Soon he came to the cellar window which, luckily, was open, so he could hop in and go upstairs where his wife and all the others were much surprised to see him.

There sat the Fuzzy Fox.

"I don't know how you were ever going to get past the bad chaps!" said Mrs. Longears.

"Oh, I fooled them with my snow tunnel!" laughed her husband. And, when it came cold, dark night, and the Fox, Bob Cat, Wolf and Bear hadn't seen Uncle Wiggily come to the bungalow to be caught, they slunk off to their dens, very much disappointed, which served them right.

So it all happened for the best. And if the bath tub doesn't go down in the cellar after dark to put coal in the wash tubs, for the wringer to eat, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the jewel trees.

A woman representative, Martha N. Brooks, has the distinction this year of being the first member of the Massachusetts legislature to have a measure become a law.

MORE FUNDS TO HOUSE STATE WARDS ASKED

Aid for Members of Public Utility Commission Also Sought

Columbus, Feb. 22—Appeal by Gov. Vic Donahey to members of the Ohio Legislature to make adequate financial provision for the "housing and care of the ever-growing number of wards in the penal, correctional and charitable institutions of Ohio" is contained in the governor's latest message which the solons had under consideration here today.

The governor also asked for enactment of legislation clarifying the definition of gambling devices, directing attention to his unsuccessful efforts to "eradicate slot machines, punch boards and like gambling devices" in Ohio.

Legislators were urged by the governor to authorize the members of the state utilities commission to select permanent attorney-examiners and temporary master commissioners, and to pass a law requiring public utilities to show cause before being authorized to collect proposed increased rates under bond.

Would Bar Legislators

Legislation prohibiting members of the Ohio legislature from practicing, directly or indirectly, before the state utilities or tax commissions during the legislator's term of office or during the two years immediately following was urged by Governor Donahey.

The governor asked for "clarifying" legislation authorizing the state utilities commission to compel railroads to comply with orders providing safety regulations.

Because of motor bus and truck transportation problems and other duties, the members of the state utilities commission, the governor explained, are swamped with work preventing them from giving greater service by devoting their time to "more weighty problems." In order to relieve these commissioners of the relatively minor duties, the governor urged that attorney-examiners be authorized to conduct hearings and report to the commission which would make final decisions based upon the recommendations of the attorney-examiners. Master commissioners, the governor said, should be authorized to take testimony and report their conclusions of law and fact to the commission.

BILL DELUGE FEATURE OF LEGISLATIVE SESSION

280 Measures in Avalanche Presented at Eleventh Hour Last Night

Columbus, Feb. 22—Senate and house clerks today were busy preparing for second reading and reference to standing committees the 280 bills constituting the avalanche of measures which featured the sessions of the two legislative branches here Monday night.

Convening at 7 p. m. both the senate and house were in session several hours while the solons put in their bills. The deluge was due to the fact that the time for introducing bills expired last midnight. From now on to the end of the present session, no bills can be introduced except by an affirmative vote of at least three fifths of the entire membership of the legislative branch in which it is proposed to offer a new measure.

A ruling has been announced that introduction of resolutions is not affected by the rule halting the customary procedure for offering bills.

Of the bills introduced Monday night, 178 were thrown into the house hopper while 101 were offered in the senate, bringing the total number of bills introduced this season up to 777. Including 499 house bills and 278 in the senate. At the last legislative session here, 851 bills were offered, or 74 more than have been introduced this session. During the session of the Ohio legislature four years ago, 919 bills were introduced.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Local buyers may look for a drop in the price of strawberries shortly, it was indicated today, when reports were received that the wholesale price of berries had dropped to 30 and 40 cents a box on the markets in larger centers.

Berries have been selling for around 90 cents a box here. In Cleveland they have been from 70 to 80 cents a box retail. The drop in Cleveland is expected to be reflected in the price of strawberries on local retail markets.

Other products were steady today with fresh supplies coming into the markets.

Fruits were selling briskly under the stimulus of lower prices on oranges and grapefruit brought about by larger supplies of these products. The higher grade grapefruit and oranges keep getting cheaper as the season advances and there are many bargains in these fruits being offered by local dealers. Some grapefruit of good size and quality is selling as low as five cents each, and the prices range up to the two-for-25 cent size. Oranges are selling at 25 to 75 cents a dozen.

RELATIVES OF MISSING YOUTH TO RESUME HUNT

Consider Use of Special Equipment To Continue Search in Lake

Relatives of Carlton Virden, 19-year-old business college student who is supposed to have committed suicide by drowning himself in Crystal Lake on Dec. 2, are making arrangements to resume search for the youth's body.

Today C. H. Bower, 407 S. Main st, one of the relatives, conferred with Chief of Police James W. Thompson and discussed plans for resuming the hunt and using special telescope equipment in an effort to locate the body. A local electrician is reported to be working on a device which is expected to enable searchers to obtain a clear view beneath the water. This device will be equipped with a powerful light expected to reach the bottom of the lake at its deepest points.

Mr. Bower stated that he went to the lake yesterday and found that it is still almost entirely clear of ice, only a narrow rim being frozen along the banks. He believes that the search should be resumed before another long spell of freezing weather forms another coating of ice.

Although young Virden disappeared on Dec. 2 and is supposed to have drowned himself on that date, there is no sign of his body having risen to the surface.

Bought Her Freedom for Ten Cents!

Keeping the System So Clean There Are No Body Odors

A lot of people who never have to take a laxative eat a candy cascaret now and then. Do you know why?

They have found that cascara sweetens the whole system—brings an immaculacy of person that means everything. It prevents bodily chemistry from ever making one unconsciously offensive to others. And what a perfect regulator of the bowels!

Salts affect the lining of the bowels. Minerals oils leave a coating that the blood must carry off through the pores. How much better to cascarize the system, and cause the bowels to expel everything by normal muscular contraction! To say nothing of the cleaner, sweeter condition that lasts for days—a wholesome condition that makes the use of deodorants quite unnecessary in January or July! Men and women whose years have brought on sluggishness often find that a cascaret only once a week is all the tonic they needed.

Cascara is splendid for children, too, and they love the taste of this candy laxative which every drugstore has for 10c and 25c. Adv.—

"IT'S GLORIOUS to have no more dread of faulty elimination. And to know there can be no offense to perspiration, and no need to check it. I would never be without the candy laxative—

REACH CLIMAX IN PRESBYTERY FUND CAMPAIGN

Judge R. L. Cameron, Marysville, Chairman of Drive, Issues Statement

According to word received here today from Judge R. L. Cameron, of Marysville, campaign chairman of the Marion Presbytery which is seeking $52,234 as its quota in the $15,000,000 national fund for aged and disabled Presbyterian ministers and missionaries, the climax of the campaign has been reached and still more strenuous efforts are being made to obtain large subscriptions.

The first report which was made last Friday totaled $8,398. It included statements from only 10 per cent of the churches active in the Marion Presbytery. "The thing can be done," says Judge Cameron, "for the 10 per cent already contributed realized more than 16 per cent of our quota."

Small Pledges

The first report included many small pledges, with the exception of a few exceptionally large ones. The cause has been made easier since payments can be made over a five-year period, which means, for example, a pledge of $500 is actually only $1.93 per week.

The final report will be made March 1 at which time it will be determined whether Marion Presbytery has reached its goal. If unsatisfactory, the campaign cannot be repeated.

In comparison with other neighboring Ohio Presbyteries, also interested in the establishing of a service pension fund, Marion's first report, made last Friday, was fair.

Columbus reported $129,272 of its $148,286 quota; Lima $15,305 of its $42,765 quota, and Wooster, 10,085 of its $65,532 quota.

A grand total of $516,658 has been raised towards Ohio's quota of $1,334,335. Of this fund $100,000 was contributed by the late Robert E. Wolfe, former publisher of Columbus newspapers.

The state of Michigan reports having raised $147,627 of its $568,748 quota; Indiana $142,792 of its $305,354 quota, and Kentucky $36,000 of its $231,433 quota.

The total amount raised in the four states now amounts to $843,077 of the combined quota of slightly more than $2,500,000.

ITALIAN HELD IN CONNECTION WITH ATTACK

Girls Claim Man Under Arrest Resembles Their Assailant

Police investigating the mysterious attack made upon Miss Esther Huffman, 21, at her home, 109 St. Clair-st, by a man who broke into the Huffman dwelling in an alleged attempt to kidnap her, took Pete Costango, 33, an Italian formerly employed at the Hornell Ice Co., into custody about 1 o'clock this morning.

Costango, arrested at a bunkhouse near the ice plant in the Erie yards, was taken to the city prison and this morning Miss Huffman and other members of her family went to police headquarters to confront the suspect.

Miss Huffman and her 13-year-old sister, Helen, who were sleeping together in the room which the supposed kidnaper invaded early Sunday morning, both claim that Costango resembled their assailant. Other members of the household were not positive about the identification, however.

The bunkhouse where Costango stays and where he was taken into custody is located only a short distance from the Huffman home.

May Release Man

Because of members of the Huffman family being unable to agree on identification of Costango as the alleged kidnaper, and as other evidence against him is not available, he will probably be released, Chief of Police Thompson stated today.

The kidnaping attempt occurred about 5 o'clock Sunday morning, the man entering the Huffman home through a downstairs window. He was attempting to drag Miss Huffman from the premises when screams from her and Helen, the 13-year-old sister, awakened other members of the household and the intruder was frightened away, making his escape through the open window. He is said to have fled in the direction of the Marion Packing Co. building, located near the ice plant.

MAN AND GIRL FINED IN MUNICIPAL COURT

As a result of his automobile having gone into the ditch along a roadway about a half mile south of Agosta, yesterday afternoon, Floyd R. Smith, 30, was arrested on a charge of driving while intoxicated, and his companion, Miss Helen Jones, 20, was held for intoxication.

The couple, said to reside near Forest, were arraigned in Municipal Court this morning and both pleaded guilty. Smith was fined $50 and costs and Miss Jones $15 and costs. They paid and were released.

The arrests were made about 5:30 yesterday afternoon by Deputy Vane Ireland, who was called by a farmer living near the place where the car went into the ditch.

The machine, a Ford sedan, Ireland reported, had crashed into a fence and was considerably damaged. Neither of the occupants was injured.
